Bader, Brownell in runoff for mayor

Wright, Koch also face runoff; Ochoa keeps council seat

Pomona was guaranteed a new mayor Tuesday when voters turned incumbent Ray Lepire out of office while setting up a run-off election between City Councilman Charles Bader and former Mayor Richard Brownell for the post.

The only incumbent winning reelection Tuesday was Benjamin Ochoa in the city's 3rd Councilmanic District. He polled more than 52 per cent of the vote in easily outdistancing two challengers, Walter A. Clark and John Ridley.

I. Clark	1,377
Wright	4,389
Koch	2,020
Ramirez	1,369

3rd DIST.

Ochoa	4,710
W. Clark	1,881
Ridley	2,438

City Councilman Adrian Wright narrowly missed outright victory in gaining almost 48 per cent of the vote, but will have to face William Koch in the April 19 run-off in the 2nd District.

Bader finished first in the mayor's race, gaining 38.8 per cent of the vote. Brownell was second with 21 per cent.

(In order to be elected Tuesday a candidate had to receive 50 per cent plus one of the votes cast.)

Behind Brownell came Clay Bryant, a former City Councilman, with 18.2 per cent of the vote.

Lepire was a dismal fourth, receiving only 17.2 per cent. Lepire's showing was somewhat surprising considering he won the post easily in this election two years ago.

Asked to offer his explanation of the results, Bader said "it's indicative of a desire for changes at City Hall. I'm looking forward to a vigorous discussion of the issues confronting the city."

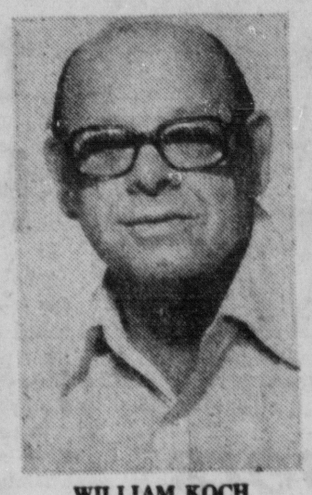

Brownell called the results a "repudiation" of Lepire and current policies.

"It is ironic that Vice Mayor Bader is in the run-off. After all, he was Mayor Lepire's handpicked vice mayor and concurred with Lepire 95 per cent of the time," said Brownell.

In addition to settling the run-offs between Bader and Brownell, and Wright and Koch on April 19, voters will also be asked to choose a new council member from the 4th District in a special race to fill the remaining two years of Bader's current term. The candidates in that race are G. Stanton Selby, John A. Stanley, and Gertha Speiginer.

A total of 33 per cent of the eligible voters went to the polls in Tuesday's election. With all votes counted the results were:

No. Diamond Bar transfer rejected

By DAN NIEBRUGGE
PB Staff Writer

The controversial transfer of North Diamond Bar from the Pomona to the Walnut Valley Unified School District was rejected by a nearly two-to-one margin by voters in the Pomona district and more than 800 votes in the Walnut district in Tuesday's election.

In Pomona, the measure went down to defeat with 6,052 no votes to 3,982 yes votes. In the Walnut district, the margin was 1,957 no votes to 1,119 yes votes.

The total vote was 8,009 to 5,101 against the transfer in both districts.

Had the measure passed, all North Diamond Bar students and schools now in the Pomona Unified School District would have joined the Walnut Valley district on July 1, 1978.

If the vote accomplished anything, it did show the fervency with which voters in North Diamond Bar feel they will do better in Walnut schools. The five North Diamond Bar precincts in the Pomona district supported the transfer 2,120 to 128; a 94.4 per cent margin in favor with only 5.6 per cent against the transfer.

South Diamond Bar voters in the Walnut district were not as supportive of the idea of uniting the two Diamond Bars at this time as the measure passed — still by a significant margin — 843 to 550 for a 61 per cent to 39 per cent approval; these figures coming from the six South Diamond Bar precincts in the Walnut district.

Voters in Pomona, excluding North Diamond Bar, rejected the idea 5,824 to 1,862. In Walnut, excluding South Diamond Bar, the transfer was turned down 1,407 to 276.

Scores diplomat's apology

Carter lifts ban on travel in Cuba, N. Korea, Vietnam

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter today termed inappropriate a U.S. diplomat's apology for alleged American involvement in overthrowing a left-wing Chilean government. At the same time, he said the United States should become "the focal point for the preservation and protection of human rights" around the world.

He said that has not always been America's role. As evidence of his commitment, Carter cited his decision to end the ban on travel by U.S. citizens to four Communist nations, Cuba, Cambodia, Vietnam and North Korea.

Carter said that ban, to be lifted March 18, was an instance in which the United States "has been at fault" for abridging rights, in this case, freedom of travel.

"We also are quite eagerly assessing our own nation's policies that violate human rights as defined by the Helsinki agreement," Carter said. A spokesman said later that the travel ban was the only specific item Carter had in mind.

An episode in Warrensville Heights, Ohio, where a black gunman held a white police captain hostage but promised to release him after Carter's appearance, added drama to the President's third news conference.

Carter said he would have set a dangerous precedent had he agreed to talk to the gunman, who demanded an apology for alleged white misdeeds against blacks. But he added he will talk to the man after the hostage is released.

Police said the captain had been released after the news conference.

Carter began the news conference by announcing that he has sent Congress a $1.5 billion, youth employment program to curb extraordinarily high joblessness among young people, particularly minorities in the cities.

He said the administration will make a major push for a Middle East settlement in 1977, one that may include adjustment of the old boundaries between Israel and the Arab states.

Carter's comments came after two days of conferences with Israeli Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin. The President began that round of talks by endorsing the concept of "defensible borders" for Israel in a future settlement.

On specific arms control items, Carter said he doesn't want the U.S. cruise missile or the Soviet Backfire bomber, both matters of major controversy, included in negotiations at the outset.

Gunmen seize hostages at B'nai B'rith headquarters

WASHINGTON (AP) — Four armed men took over a portion of the B'nai B'rith International Headquarters building seven blocks north of the White House today and took between seven and 20 hostages, police said.

Metropolitan Police officer A. W. Bell said at the scene that the men were trapped and took over the seventh floor after their hold-up attempt at the building was foiled, shots were exchanged and three persons were injured.

Police information officer Joseph Gentile reported that about 11 a.m. police were called to the scene by a report of gunshots being fired at the building, located in the midst of various embassies and down the street from the National Rifle Association.

Bell said that the armed men had used rollers to paint over the windows at the rear of the building, apparently to block the view of police sharpshooters outside.

A police helicopter circled the building and police barricaded streets in the area, which normally are filled with lunch-hour traffic.

A cleaning employe in the B'nai B'rith offices said in a telephone interview he and several other building workers barricaded themselves in the basement. The unidentified man who answered the phone said they did so after seeing at least two men enter the building armed with a knife and a gun. He said police had entered the building.

Amtrak passenger train derails; injuries reported

CORNING, Calif. (AP) — An Amtrak train derailed just north of Corning early today, spilling about 10 cars and causing some injuries, authorities said.

The California Highway Patrol in Redding said at least two ambulances were dispatched to the scene. "We know of no fatals at this time," a spokeswoman said.

The Southern Pacific train, carrying about 150 passengers on a regular run from San Francisco to Portland, Ore., jumped the track just after midnight, officers reported.

The Tehama County sheriff's office said all but two cars were off the track.

The county fire department sent engines as a precautionary measure but reported no fire.

No further details were immediately available.

Gunman watches Carter, surrenders to his hostage

WARRENSVILLE HEIGHTS, Ohio (AP) — A black gunman surrendered today to the white police captain he had held hostage for 45 hours while complaining of oppression of blacks and demanding that whites leave the planet within seven days, police said.

The release came shortly after President Carter repeated during a nationally televised news conference his earlier promise to speak with gunman Cory Moore after the hostage, Capt. Leo Keglovic, was freed.

"Everybody's out, everybody's safe, nobody's hurt," Police Chief Craig Merchant told reporters who waited outside this Cleveland suburb's City Hall where the siege had taken place. Also waiting on hand were relatives of Keglovic, 49-year-old father of five.

Merchant said the young community college student was to talk with the White House, but there was no immediate word as to when.

Merchant said Moore emptied the bullets from his two handguns and gave them to Keglovic. The police captain then led him out of a room and turned him over to police who waited in the corridor.

Keglovic, a diabetic, was taken to a hospital, but authorities said he was unharmed.

Two men arrested in Fontana slaying

Two men have been arrested on suspicion of murder charges by Fontana sheriff's deputies investigating the stabbing death of a 23-year-old Riverside man following an altercation at Burkes Rodeo Arena on Slover Avenue in Bloomington Tuesday night.

Dead of multiple stab wounds was John Allsup.

Booked in the San Bernardino County Jail on suspicion of murder were Robert H. Mueller, 24, of Fontana and Dallas A. Heston, 25, of Colton.

Fontana sheriff's deputies and homicide detectives said that Allsup was attacked by the two suspects following a bull riding event at the rodeo arena about 9 p.m.

Detectives said that earlier in the evening Mueller had told Allsup not to dangle his feet over the wall of the ring. Allsup reportedly refused to comply until the owner of the arena told him the same thing.

After the bull riding event the two suspects apparently confronted the victim and several of his friends near one of the bull shoots. A fight ensued and Mueller reportedly pulled a knife and stabbed Allsup numerous times in the chest, thigh and legs, said investigators.

Allsup staggered into the middle of the arena and collapsed. He died a short time later at Kaiser Foundation Hospital in Fontana.

Deputies said the two suspects were arrested early this morning at two separate locations in the Fontana area.

Incumbent, 2 newcomers elected in Walnut race

By DAN NIEBRUGGE
PB Staff Writer

Voters in the Walnut Valley Unified School District returned incumbent board member James Hannan for his second four-year term along with newcomers Ladd Hollist and Robert Kuhnert in Tuesday's election.

The three principal vote getters far outdistanced their nearest rival as Hannan received 1,333; Hollist 1,204 and Kuhnert 1,094 votes to 856 for George Riggs who finished fourth.

Other results showed Jacqueline Haines fifth with 821 votes; John Aboud sixth with 811 votes; Ann Stroh seventh with 803 votes; Dominic Catalano eighth with 585 votes; Robert Caligiuri ninth with 474 votes and Ralph England 10th with 207 votes.

The large field running for three seats in a district with only 8,609 registered voters may have influenced the outcome. Approximately 3,000 voters cast ballots in the district on Tuesday for a turnout of approximately 34 per cent.

Voters also passed the district's revenue limit tax increase measure by a 62.2 per cent to 37.8 per cent margin in favor. There were 1,905 yes votes cast to only 1,158 no votes. The measure increases the district's tax overrride from $58 to $75 per pupil per year for the next two years. Had voteres failed to approve the measure they would have received a 65 cent tax cut when the current tax overrride expires in June.

A sales representative, Hannan was first appointed to the board six years ago and ran and won his first full four-year term four years ago.

Both Hollist and Kuhnert waged vigorous meet the people type campaigns. Both supported the controversial transfer of North Diamond Bar into the Walnut Valley district and campaigned on a back to basics platform.

Hollist is a professor at the University of Southern California. Kuhnert is a deputy district attorney for Los Angeles County.

The new boardmembers will be seated at the board's first regular meeting in April.

Two return to Chaffey High board

The two incumbent members of the Chaffey Joint Union High School board of trustees were returned to their posts in the Tuesday election. They will be joined by an attorney as a new member.

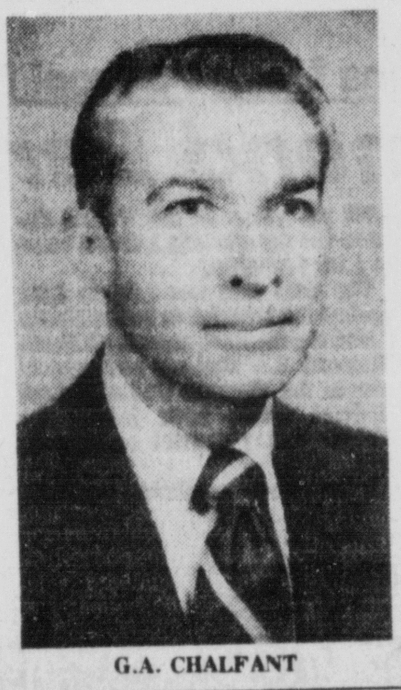

In a contest of 12 candidates for the three seats available, Mrs. Martha Chapman, an Ontario housewife, and G.C. Chalfant, Ontario business executive and current school board president, each received more than 4,000 votes to continue in their posts.

They will be joined by Attorney Charles J. Uhalley of Alta Loma, elected to his first term.

Mrs. Chapman received 4,458 votes, Chalfant received 4,364 votes and Uhalley, 3,976.

Other candidates and their votes were: Robert C. Beam, 1,964; Frank A. Brown, 1,276; Ralph F. Langley, 3,958; Excell N. Hunter, 594; Clifford M. Sumrall, 1,882; Maxine M. Curtis, 3,699; William C. Draper, 1,776; Paul J. Gomez, 1,625; and Patrick A. McHugh, 895.

Germ claim

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A San Francisco family says testimony presented to a U.S. Senate committee investigating secret Army germ warfare tests has encouraged them to go ahead with legal action in the death of their father.

The survivors of Edward J. Nevin, who died of a heart infection Nov. 1, 1950, will file a claim against the Army within the next 30 days, Edward J. Nevin III, an attorney and grandson of the victim, said Tuesday.

Attorney Nevin said that after investigating on his own he went to Washington and met with Sen. Richard S. Schweiker, R-Pa., a member of the investigating committee.

The results of his investigation and developments at the hearing cleared the way for the family's legal action, he said. Before the Army can be sued a claim must be filed, which the Army has six months to consider.

Tuna ruling

SAN DIEGO (AP) — U.S. tuna fishermen say a court ruling does not solve their problem and will not get them back out to sea.

The U.S. Appeals Court in Washington Tuesday granted a request by Commerce Secretary Juanita Kreps that fishermen temporarily be allowed to fish for tuna when porpoise are present until the 1977 fishing permits are processed.

However, skippers in the fleet said the ruling failed to address the question of Eastern Spinners, a kind of porpoise which the government says cannot be killed at all during the netting of tuna.

The tuna crews sometimes accidentally drown porpoise, marine mammals which swim above prime yellowfin tuna and become entangled in nets.

The skippers say it is impossible to tell Eastern Spinners from other types of porpoise, although the fleet tries to rescue all porpoise which become entangled, not just Spinners.

Carter calls

SAN BERNARDINO (AP) — President Carter admits that Ruby Hewitt stumped him when the 65-year-old woman asked him why Social Security recipients get only one cost-of-living adjustment a year while civil service and military retirees get two.

The President placed a return call to Mrs. Hewitt Tuesday. She was the last of four persons whose questions he couldn't answer during his nationwide radio show last Saturday.

"They're going to look into things," Mrs. Hewitt said Carter told her. "He hasn't made a decision yet . . . Congress acted independently on the two and it's something that can't be resolved overnight."

Mrs. Hewitt and her 69-year-old blind husband, Howard, live on Social Security and his pension from construction work.

She was one of 42 persons who called Carter. The president told four persons he would get back to them with answers to their questions. Three others received calls from aides Monday.

Sieroty wins

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Assemblyman Alan Sieroty swept to an easy victory early today in a special state Senate election, despite his Republican opponent's well-financed law-and-order campaign.

Sieroty, a liberal Democrat and one of the legislature's leading civil libertarians, had 55.3 per cent of the votes in the special election called to fill the seat vacated by Democrat Anthony Beilenson, who was elected to Congress last year.

Republican Ralph Andrews had 40.6 per cent of the votes, and conservative Democrat William Kurdi trailed far behind with 3.9 per cent.

Sieroty avoided a runoff election next month by winning more than 50 per cent of the vote.

Drought report

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — In spite of late-February storms that brought new hope to the rain-starved West, March is tiptoeing at its gentlest over an area suffering through one of the driest years in history.

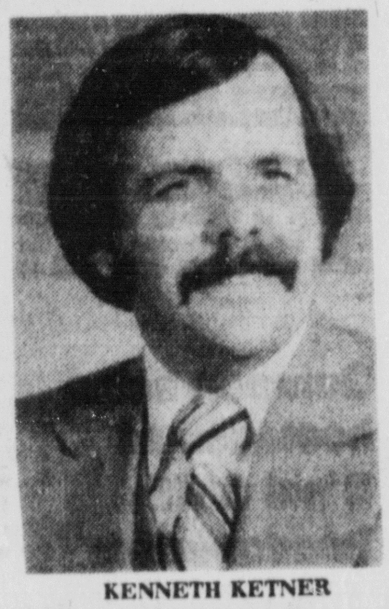

An Associated Press survey of drought-affected Western states shows that an increasingly grim picture has not been brightened by sporadic precipitation breaking through a coastal high pressure system that has held off storms for most of the winter.

Ski resorts from California to Utah, for example, experienced a brief mini-boom in business from only the first or second good snowfall this year. But the snow soon melted.

At a few resorts, it was already too late. Hoping for better times next year, they have shut down lifts, laid off standby employes and boarded up lodges.

In water-rationed Marin County, across the bay from San Francisco, residents who set out dishpans and buckets to catch rain got only 1½ inches of water after four days of on-and-off rainfall.

SHARON JEFFERS

KENNETH KETNER

Two new members elected to Chaffey College board

Voters in the Chaffey College board of trustees election replaced two long-time board members with a woman lawyer from Norco and an Ontario investment consultant.

The new board members, Sharon Jeffers of Norco and Kenneth Kenter of Ontario, each tallied 1,000 votes over the incumbents they replaced, Georgia Mellon and Dr. Merle Cox.

Mrs. Jeffers is from the Corona-Norco area which was annexed to the Chaffey College district in a previous election. The annexation became effective July 1, 1976.

She received 7,752 votes.

Ketner, who attended Chaffey College before continuing on to Cal Poly Pomona, received 7,787 votes.

The incumbents, Mrs. Mellon who served on the board 17 years, received 6,925 votes while Dr. Cox, a 12-year board member, tallied 6,784.

There were nine candidates for the two seats on the five-member board.

Other candidates and their total votes were: John L. Botkin, 1,067; Dale D. Borgen, 1,313; William H. Thompson, 4,158; Charles E. Rector, 708; and William A. Russell Jr., 2,237.

The Chaffey College district encompasses the west end area of San Bernardino County and a western portion of Riverside County.

Foothill Fire District tax hike okayed

Foothill Fire District voters Tuesday clearly approved a 30-cent increase in the district tax rate.

The vote was 2,325 yes and 1,540 no; 60.1 per cent in favor and 39.8 per cent opposed.

Only a simple majority vote was required for passage.

"We really needed it," district Chief Eugene Billings said this morning.

The increase will raise the district tax rate from 70 cents per $100 of assessed valuation to $1. It will become effective July 1.

The district was formed in 1974 and population has increased at a rapid pace in the tri-communities since that time making heavy demands on the district personnel and equipment, Billings said.

The district's $1.2 million 1976-77 budget did not include a tax increase. It funds a three-man staff at the Alta Loma and Cucamonga station, and a two-man crew at a temporary Etiwanda station.

District chairman Rick Label said the district was operating at only about 25 per cent of national efficiency standards.

L.V. College is conducting a phonathon

La Verne College is conducting a telephone campaign — called a phonathon — through Friday to raise funds.

"We started the phonathon by believing the people would respond — and we were right," explained Arliss Johnson, director of development at La Verne College, about the success of the third annual phonathon.

Kicked off by the 50th anniversary of the New Era Banquet, last Friday, the phonathon collected $55,000 before the banquet and $38,000 at the banquet.

An anonymous donor presented a $10,000 challenge to meet every dollar pledged over the $84,000 raised last year.

According to Larry Woodruff, community chairman of the phonathon, more than $126,000 has been raised since the telephoning started Saturday.

"Phonathon members make between 20 and 25 calls every hour," says Woodruff, who teaches at Sierra High School in Azusa. "We are averaging about $2,000 an hour by phone.

"People are coming in and asking us if they can help, even if they haven't signed up for that night."

Although this is only the third phonathon, annual fund raising has been a tradition at the college since 1927, when the first New Era Banquet originated as a community-wide campaign to raise needed monies for the college.

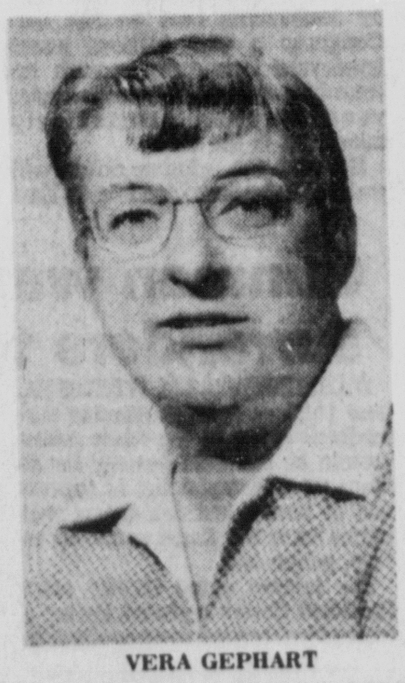

Only Bonita incumbent retains her board seat

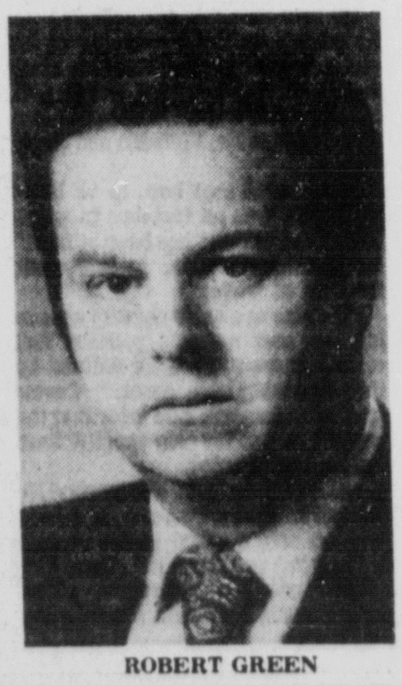

Vera Mae Gephart and Robert Green were elected to the Bonita School Board Tuesday by narrowly defeating two other candidates.

In a very close race, Mrs. Gephart, the only incumbent running for re-election, finished first with 1,014 votes, followed by Green with 993, Don Zugates with 944, and Clell Hoffman with 875.

Green will assume the seat now held by Anton Dyck, who was first elected in 1969.

Voter turnout in the district was extremely light as only 14 per cent of the eligible voters cast ballots.

One incumbent survives O-M district election

The voters of the Ontario-Montclair School District re-elected one incumbent to the school board in Tuesday's balloting but unseated two others.

The successful candidates were incumbent Rose Kelber, Ontario housewife who topped all candidates with 2,036 votes; Kathleen Brugger, also a housewife, 1,780 votes, and William E. Hennie, an Ontario policeman, 1,644 votes.

The defeated incumbents were Reta Spencer, 1,461 votes, and Cliff Donaldson, 1,450 votes. Other candidates and their votes: Oswaldo Marrujo, 1,151; Mark R. Noel Jr., 826; Pamela D. Gransbury, 559, and Dakota D. Baker, 556.

The three successful candidates will take office at the April board meeting.

Lawsuit filed against Pomona

By ED PRATHER
PB Staff Writer

A lawsuit that could endanger Pomona's right to more than $1.4 million in federal grant funds this year has been filed in federal court in Los Angeles.

The lawsuit, filed Monday afternoon by the Western Center on Law and Poverty in Los Angeles, charges the city is subverting the intent of the Community Development Block Grant program by refusing to seek and spend money for subsidized housing for the poor.

It also charges the spending plan outlined by the city for the funds it has received does not meet "human needs," but rather is designated for public works projects.

City Attorney Patrick Sampson, who had not officially received notice of the lawsuit, had no immediate comment.

Christine Minnehan, attorney for the Western Center on Law and Poverty, told the Progress Bulletin that the organzation would ask the U.S. District Court in Los Angeles to prohibit the city from spending any of the grant funds until the case is decided.

Those funds had been earmarked by the council for such uses as: $260,000 for beautification projects; $225,000 for creation of a centrally located senior citizens' center; $210,000 for increased street lighting; $155,000 for residential property improvement projects; and a variety of lesser amounts for several other projects.

The lawsuit charges that the intent of the Community Development Block Grant was primarily to assist low income persons paying a large amount of their income in housing costs.

Attorneys claim that the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD), which negotiated with city concerning the housing aspect of the grant before approving the city's entitlement, had no right to allow the city not to implement an equitable housing assistance plan.

The cornerstone of the Block Grant controversy in Pomona, both in the new lawsuit and in past months, has been the Section 8 housing program.

A majority of the City Council members have been adamantly opposed to subsidized housing, except for senior citizens, in the belief that such programs serve as a magnet for poor persons residing in other communities — with the result that a higher concentration of poor persons in the city is left after the assistance plan ends.

No date has been set for a hearing

Santa Barbara voters support population limit

SANTA BARBARA (AP) — Voters in this quiet coastal community have expressed heavy, but non-binding, support for limiting its population to 85,000 persons.

With about 80 per cent of Tuesday's vote counted, more than 62 per cent voiced approval of the population-limiting portion of the city's general plan. Santa Barbara now has a population of about 72,000.

And 60 per cent also approved a companion measure which would require voter approval of any future changes in the general plan that would affect population density.

Both propositions are advisory only, calling upon the voters for an expression of support for the city's general plan but not binding as such.

In the race for mayor, incumbent David Shiffman defeated challenger Lyle Reynolds by a 34-vote margin in the final, but unofficial tally.

Army waged germ warfare in U.S. cities

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army waged secret and presumed harmless germ-warfare tests on American targets for two decades, but discovered years later that one biological weapon posed a threat to public health, officials acknowledge.

The Pentagon made public a censored report detailing the use of biological agents against 19 civilian targets, including San Francisco and the Pennsylvania Turnpike, and in hundreds of instances on military reservations.

Army witnesses told a Senate health subcommittee on Tuesday that the program, ended in 1969, was conceived as a test of the nation's vulnerability to biological attack, not to study effects on humans.

Other civilian targets were Hawaii, the National Airport and Greyhound bus terminal in Washington, D.C., central Alaska, the southern California coast and the New York City subway system.

In the San Francisco tests, the Army dumped the bacteria Seriatta Marcescens into the Pacific Ocean in 1950. Subcommittee member Sen. Richard Schweiker, R-Pa., said test results show traces of the bacteria were found in the San Francisco Bay Area and up to 50 miles inland.

Two years after the bacteria was set loose at sea, Army officials testified, researchers suspected it as the cause of 11 cases of pneumonia and one death in the area.

"It is very risky indeed to assure that any living organism, reduced to germ-warfare size and released in a populated area, is ever safe," Schweiker said.

Brig. Gen. William S. Augerson, assistant Army surgeon general for research and development, said nearly two decades passed before there was conclusive evidence of the bacteria's harm.

Edward J. Nevin III, a San Francisco attorney, said he plans legal action in the death of his grandfather, Edward J. Nevin. He said he believes his grandfather's death was caused by the Army program.

The report also revealed roles played in the nation's biological and chemical warfare programs by two top Carter administration officials, Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance and Defense Secretary Harold Brown, although it did not refer to them by name.

Both were Pentagon officials during the 1960s.

Brown, Pentagon research and development chief in 1962, "strongly concurred" with a Joint Chiefs of Staff belief that biological and chemical weapons had "great potential," the report said

But Brown "felt they could be considered operational only in the most limited sense and that the task of measuring their impact accurately still had to be done," the report said.

Brown's assessment came during a Kennedy administration review of the nation's biological warfare ability. "Over-all, the project resulted in large increases in U.S. Army biological warfare programs," the report said.

Afro-Arab nations conclude political, economic accord

CAIRO (AP) — Leaders of 60 Arab and African countries signed declarations of economic cooperation and political solidarity today to wind up the first Afro-Arab summit conference.

During the three-day meeting, almost $1.5 billion of Arab oil money was pledged for African development, thus sealing economic cooperation between the two sides. The Arabs also pledged to allocate additional unspecified sums through Arab-African banks for development.

On the political level the delegates representing 500 million Arabs and Africans reaffirmed their support for the Palestinians, Namibians and black Rhodesian nationalists "in their just struggle against the oppressive racist regimes" of Israel, South Africa and Rhodesia.

"Our declarations and documemts have blessed the marriage of Africa and the Arabs for the mutual benefit and welfare of our people," said Sudanese President Jaafar el Numairi during the closing session.

"The ring that now binds us is our basis for common political, economic, scientific and cultural action for many years," said Egypt's President Anwar Sadat who chaired the conference. "Long live Afro-Arab solidarity."

The financial contributions came from Saudi Arabia, Kuwait, Qatar and the United Arab Emirates. In addition the four, along with Egypt, Jordan and Libya, extended a total of $10 million for the Organization of African Unity's liberation movements' fund.

The conference issued a declaration embodying the principles of political and economic cooperation and another document outlining how this would be put into effect.

In the economic declaration the Arabs pledged to allocate an unspecified sum for development projects in Africa. Conference sources said wealthy African countries like Nigeria and Gabon would participate. The money will be channeled through any of the five established Arab and African banks for development, they said.

On the political level the declaration reaffirmed the principle of nonintervention in each other's internal affairs and condemned the occupation of land by force.

They also called for continued efforts to "find means of increasing the political and economic isolation of Israel, South Africa and Rhodesia as long as the regimes of these countries persist in the racist, expansionist and aggressive policies."

The declaration comdemned Israel for alleged "attempts to change the geographic and demographic status of the occupied Arab lands and demanded Israel should stop such action."

ONLY THE SKELETON REMAINS

Firemen put out a three-alarm blaze that ripped through a warehouse in Boston's waterfront Tuesday night. Flames engulfed the building and the heat could be felt by dozens of onlookers several hundred feet away. No one is believed to have been in the building.

Carter sees distinction in Israel borders issue

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter said today there may be a distinction in any Middle East peace agreement between new legal borders for Israel and the lines needed to defend the security of the Jewish state.

He told a news conference that any boundaries would have to be mutually agreed to by Israel and its Arab neighbors and that "defense lines may or may not conform in the foreseeable future to those legal borders."

Carter's remarks came a day after Israeli Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin said here that his nation must have "defensible borders" which do not "coincide in any way with the borders that existed before the 1967 war."

The President said phrases such as "secure, borders" and "defensible borders" are "just semantics." But, he continued, he agrees with Rabin's call for a full and stable peace.

Saying he was not prejudging a settlement, Carter said a stable area would require "substantial withdrawals of Israel's present control over territories.

"Where that withdrawal might end I don't know; I would guess some minor adjustments of the '67 borders."

This is essentially the American position since the United Nations adopted a resolution after the 1967 war calling for a settlement based on Israeli withdrawal from an undefined amount of the conquered land.

In his news conference, Carter said the possibilities concerning Israeli borders and defense needs "might well be international forces," or "the sometime placement of Israeli forces themselves or by monitoring stations ... beyond the actual sovereign borders."

A possible model might be the American-manned electronic monitoring posts now separating Israeli and Egyptian forces in the Sinai desert.

Carter also mentioned a possible 20-mile demilitarized zone.

Has evidence others in on King assassination—counsel

WASHINGTON (AP) — Chief Counsel Richard A. Sprague told the House Committee on Assassinations today he has uncorroborated evidence "indicating that others may have had knowledge of or participated in the assassination" of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.

Sprague also told the committee in a brief opening statement that his staff has evidence on the murder of President John F. Kennedy indicating "there was prior knowledge on the part of some individuals of that assassination before it occurred."

But in both investigations, Sprague told the committee, the staff has been unable to thoroughly check witnesses' stories or determine whether they are corroborated or untrue.

The chief counsel gave only the hints of what his evidence is before the press and public were dismissed from the committee room so Sprague and his staff could give a detailed briefing to committee members.

Sprague's indication of evidence of a conspiracy in the King assassination was in contrast to a Justice Department investigation that concluded no evidence had been found that King was killed by anyone other than James Earl Ray, acting alone.

Ray, currently serving a 99-year sentence on conviction of that assassination, has offered through an attorney to testify if the committee will listen to his story that there was a conspiracy to kill King and he was set up to take the blame.

Ray's new lawyer, Jack Kershaw of Nashville, said in a telephone interview Tuesday night, that a committee investigator had contacted him and they discussed jointly interviewing Ray as early as next week.

Sprague suggested the staff has not been able to do more because of the lack of access to FBI files and lack of long-distance telephone service, both cut off by former Chairman Henry B. Gonzalez, D-Tex., when he tried to fire Sprague.

The chief counsel said that has been corrected and he now is in a position to draw up new subpoenas and dispatch investigators to check out witnesses' stories.

The committee's new chairman, Rep. Louis Stokes, D-Ohio, refused before today's meeting to characterize the evidence, but he noted, "we've already said we're pursuing leads in both investigations."

Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill appointed Stokes to take over the chairmanship immediately after the House voted 296 to 100 on Tuesday to accept the resignation of former chairman Henry B. Gonzalez, D-Tex.

Valley crime

Victim didn't know gunman

Garland Smith, the 44-year-old Pomona man who was shot and critically wounded last Wednesday morning in his northwest Pomona backyard, has told sheriff's investigators that he had never seen his alleged attacker before.

The statement, taken by sheriff's homicide detectives at Pomona Valley Community Hospital, was the result of an independent investigation requested of the incident by Pomona police. Richard Douglas Dukes, 20, was wounded fatally that morning by Pomona police who said they found him standing over the wounded Smith, a pistol in his hand.

Smith was in critical condition after having been shot, but now is reported in good condition.

Deputies told Pomona police that Smith said he was working in his backyard when Dukes confronted him with the revolver. The young man was quoted as telling Smith, "I've already killed two people," before shooting Smith in the shoulder. When Smith fell and attempted to rise, he was shot in the head.

Pomona police charged that earlier, Dukes was the one who fired several shots at cars being driven on Garey Avenue near Grove Avenue, a couple blocks from the Smith home. One driver was wounded slightly and another escaped injury.

Police said they have developed no definite motive for the shootings, but said Dukes may have been using so-called "angel dust," a drug intended for use by veterinarians. They are awaiting the results of toxicological tests begun by coroner's office experts after the Dukes autopsy.

Woman held prisoner, raped

An 18-year-old woman told Pomona police Tuesday that she was kidnaped and raped several times while being held a prisoner overnight.

The victim, who lives in Pomona, said she was taken from her car in an alley in the 1300 block of S. Main Street and taken to several southside locations during the almost 10-hour period she was held captive. She was released Tuesday morning.

The woman said the incident began when she stopped at Sharkie Park to inquire about a friend.

The victim said her assailant was a Latin about 25, 5 feet 9 weighing 225 pounds. He had Emeliano Zapata tatooed on his chest and Maria on one hand. He wore a white sweat shirt, tan trousers and gray hat.

The young woman said that after her release she returned to her car and found that all its windows had been broken.

Rescuers digging new hole in mine; no signs of life

TOWER CITY, Pa. (AP) — Rescuers are boring a second hole into Big Lick Mountain after an electronic probe deep within the mountain failed to detect any signs of life from five missing miners.

Rescuers lowered sensitive listening devices and a television camera down a 432-foot hole Tuesday morning. But the searchers saw only debris, and drilling equipment was moved 55 feet away to a new site.

News briefs

Blaze breaks out in Ontario hotel; 1 hurt

Ontario police and firemen evacuated the entire third floor of the old Beverly Hotel at 112 S. Euclid Ave. early this morning after a fire broke out in one of the rooms.

Firemen said that an elderly man, identified only as Mr. Biller, was helped out of room 207 where the fire began about 3:51 a.m. He had suffered first and second degree burns on his legs after the fire apparently started in a clothes hamper and spread to the rest of the room.

Just prior to the firemen's arrival, an automatic sprinkler system built into the hotel rooms was activated, extinguishing the blaze.

Firemen said that with the aid of police officers they kicked in Biller's room door when it wouldn't open and found Biller sitting on the bed in a disoriented state and in shock.

He was treated for burns at the scene and left to seek his own medical attention.

As a precaution, officers and firemen kicked in the doors of other rooms on the third floor and helped the occupants downstairs.

Fire inspectors said that fire in clothes hamper spread to a night stand next to Biller's bed, then to draperies and bedding before the sprinkler system activated.

The damage to the room and contents was estimated at less than $500, but the heavy flow of water from the sprinkler system soaked through the floor and walls, seaping down into the Valley Department Store on the ground floor of the hotel.

Owners of the store said damage was extensive and could well exceed $10,000.

Cause of the blaze is still under investigation.

Rains little help to West

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — In spite of late-February storms that brought new hope to the rain-starved West, March is tiptoeing at its gentlest over an area suffering through one of the driest years in history.

An Associated Press survey of drought-affected Western states shows that an increasingly grim picture has not been brightened by sporadic precipitation breaking through a coastal high pressure system that has held off storms for most of the winter.

Memorial rite for mine dead

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — A year ago today 15 men were killed in a methane-gas explosion in Scotia Coal Co.'s No. 1 mine. Two days later, 11 more men died in the same pit.

"It's an awful trying time here in the mountains," the widow of one of the victims of the blasts beneath Big Mountain at Oven Fork, said Tuesday, referring to a memorial service scheduled for Thursday. "It's sad all over the mountains again."

No apology, says U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Carter administration is disclaiming an American envoy's apology for U.S. involvement in the overthrow of Salvador Allende's government in Chile.

As a candidate last year, President Carter himself criticized the Ford administration for helping establish the military dictatorship that now rules Chile.

But the administration appeared stunned Tuesday when Brady Tyson, deputy leader of the U.S. delegation to the U.N. Human Rights Commission, issued the apology during a commission debate in Geneva.

Rebate fight to continue

WASHINGTON (AP) — Fights over a $50-per-person rebate and a new business tax break are likely to continue during Senate action on the House-approved version of President Carter's economic stimulus program.

The tax reduction bill, worth $43.1 billion during the next 31 months, was passed Tuesday by the House, 282 to 131, after battles over the rebate and a new job-stimulating tax cut, mainly for smaller businesses.

The Senate Finance Committee continues hearings today on the measure. Senate Republicans want a permanent tax cut instead of the rebates.

U.S. split on Africa policy

WASHINGTON (AP) — Carter administration officials are split over the future direction of U.S. African policy in what some diplomats see as a test of President Carter's commitment to human rights.

British Prime Minister James Callaghan, arriving here today, is expected to discuss with Carter both Rhodesia, the breakaway British colony, and South Africa. Both are ruled by white minority governments.

Senior diplomats here say Carter seems torn between one proposal for the administration to announce all-out opposition to South Africa as the bastion of white supremacy on the continent and another favoring a step-by-step approach to social change in white-ruled African nations.

Arafat says OK to link

CAIRO (AP) — Yasir Arafat has agreed to link his Palestine Liberation Organization with Jordan, Arab sources say.

Because Israel has refused to negotiate with a separate Palestinian delegation, this reported decision by Arafat may help remove the chief obstacle to resumption of the Arab-Israeli peace talks in Geneva.

The sources said Arafat on Tuesday informed Jordan's King Hussein of his willingness to establish a formal link between the PLO and Jordan before resumption of the Geneva talks, possibly this fall. Arafat is expected to receive approval for the linkup with Jordan at a meeting next week of the Palestinian National Council, the PLO's legislative body.

Hope fades for trapped quake victims

U.S., other nations send aid to Romania

BUCHAREST, Romania (AP) — Hope faded for trapped earthquake victims today as rescuers and trained dogs pressed a round-the-clock search through the rubble of collapsed apartment buildings.

"Last night the dogs found a family still alive over there," said a sergeant at the ruins of the Scala cafe and apartment house, "but when we got to them this morning, they were all dead — father, mother and daughter."

The official toll in Romania is still 1,034 dead, 810 of them in Bucharest, and 6,185 injured. But dead bodies are still being found in the rubble and have not been added to the total.

The Scala was one of 32 apartment buildings that collapsed in the Romania capital during the quake last Friday night. Three men and three dogs from the Swiss Catastrophe Dog Association searched at the ruins.

One dog slipped on the debris, then moved closer to a hole in the side of a two-story high mound of rubble. The dog barked twice, and his trainer peered inside with a flashlight. "Yes, there's one here. Dead," he called to rescue workers below.

Dust-covered soldiers wearing gauze masks and white hard hats waited while the dog team searched. They went back to work, some digging with shovels and others removing books, blankets, shoes and other items from the rubble.

Aneta Balausan, 20, was found alive late Tuesday after being trapped for nearly 100 hours without food or water. She was taken to a military hospital where doctors said her crushed leg would have to be amputated below the knee. Her family was killed.

Temperatures that had been as high as 50 degrees dropped to near freezing Tuesday night, increasing the risk to trapped survivors of death from exposure. But except for a brief shower Monday, rescue workers have been helped by clear weather.

The workers said it would be days before they had cleared all the debris and recovered all bodies.

"It's difficult to say how long it will take," said a general at one collapsed apartment building. "Every time they find a body they stop using the heavy equipment and proceed by hand."

Meanwhile, Yugoslav officials said light tremors shook the area around Krusevac, about 95 miles south of Belgrade, Tuesday night and early today, but no damage or injuries were reported.

Foreign aid to the Romanian victims was picking up, with planes arriving or due from 13 nations. East Germany appeared to be taking the lead, sending one or more planeloads of medical supplies and food daily.

The U.S. Air Force sent a C130 transport loaded with antibiotics, bandages and other medical supplies on Monday. A Soviet plane arrived Tuesday.

Other shipments came from Austria, Britain, Bulgaria, which itself reported 50 dead and 120 injured in the quake, Italy, Poland, Switzerland and Yugoslavia, where the quake toll was one dead and 100 injured.

The first flights from West Germany, Greece and Denmark were due today, along with additional shipments from East Germany and Italy.

The Communist party newspaper Scinteia published messages of sympathy from foreign leaders, including President Carter and Soviet Communist party chief Leonid Brezhnev.

AFTER THE DISASTER — Peaceful moments return Tuesday to the Romanian capital of Bucahrest where more than 800 people were killed in Friday night's earthquake.

Auction tickets available

Tickets are now available for the Pitzer College Parents Association Art Auction Benefit, March 26.

Produced by Creative Art Auctions, Inc., the exhibit and auction features works of Contemporary American and European award winning artists along with Picasso, Miro, Dali and Chagall.

The exhibit will include oils, lithographs, watercolors, etchings, serigraphs and other media.

Beginning at 6 p.m. in McConnell Center on the Pitzer campus in Claremont, the program also includes a no-host cocktail party, buffet dinner and dancing. Benefit proceeds will be used for campus refurbishment.

For more information, persons may call 626-8511, ect. 3140.

Lawyer ads to be topic

The controversial subject of advertising by lawyers will be the topic of a panel presented by the Law Office Management section of the Los Angeles County Bar Association March 22.

Guest speakers at the Biltmore Hotel meeting will be Joseph H. Cummins, vice president of the state bar; Herbert Rosenthal, state bar general counsel; and James Toledano, chairman of the barristers committee on lawyer advertising.

In Upland

Address numbers will be painted

Upland residents will have their street address number painted on the curb in front of their homes during the next few weeks.

Members of the "Red Letter Edition," a high school aged Christian choir from the First Assembly Church of Pomona will be painting the numbers on the curb sides each Saturday.

Under the program, the youths will paint street numbers on curbs at no charge to the city or its residents and will be going from door to door soliciting contributions. Contributions are voluntary, however, and in no way should residents feel obligated to contribute.

The youths will start in the northern sector of the city and progress southward each successive weekend during the next two months performing the street numbering service in front of all single family residences, Each member will carry identification. Residents are encouraged to verify the membership of representatives before making any contributions.

Amendments

Of the proposed amendments clarifying individual and state's rights in the Constitution and originally submitted to the states by the First Congress in 1789, two were not approved. These related to the apportionment of representatives to congress and compensation of members. The 10 amendments that were adopted are known as the Bill of Rights.

'Women, Work, Power' discussed at conference

Power — how do women yearn for it, search for it, fight for it and handle it?

Participants at the recent conference on "Women, Work and Power" at Pitzer College agreed on one thing — women need to learn to do it better.

The day-long conference included speaker Nora Ephron, author of "Crazy Salad" and Esquire Magazine columnist on women and media. Also speaking were UCLA psychologist Jacqueline Goodchilds; Yale University sociologist Bosabeth Kantor; Frances Lear, founder of Woman's Place, Inc. and head of her own executive search company; and Carolin Dethrow, district sales manager of the Burroughs Division of Lear Siegler Corp. and owner of a marketing, advertising and public relations firm.

Over 400 men and women of all ages jammed the auditorium to get answers to some of their own questions.

What is power in the working world? Dr. Goodchilds described it as getting one's own way, while Dr. Kantor gave examples of working power. "Power is credibility," she said. "It's getting your phone calls returned and getting your requests filled promptly."

Dr. Kantor, whose research has concentrated on the behavior of corporate men and women, believes women have a harder time being powerful. Those who achieve power do it the same way men do; they take risks, gain visibility inside and outside of the working environment, get along with others, and do work that is relevant to the employer.

Carolin Dethrow, who has risen from 50 cent-an-hour jobs to division sales manager of a major corporation in 12 years, agrees with these methods. She ascribes her success to "being gutsy — taking on jobs and then learning how I could do it. I try to find relevant needs of a company and do the needed job. And, I make my work visible."

While they may aspire to the same goals as men, women frequently find the way blocked and the opportunities limited. For example, women often start out in clerical positions where achievements appear neither risky, visible or relevant.

Moreover, said Dr. Kan-

'Women, Work and Power'...

tor, women usually do not have the advantage of an "old boy" referral network of friendship. The only woman manager in a company may find her visibility a handicap because she is not just "one of the boys." Relationships with employes higher up in the corporate structure are usually formalized with women, while men may benefit from the reflected power of protege status.

As one woman executive put it, "a boss may look down on a younger man and be reminded of himself as he was 15 years ago. But what man up there is going to look at me and be reminded of himself?"

In her keynote address, Nora Ephron blamed part of women's difficulties in obtaining power on the lack of role models in mothers and in the women's movement.

"The woman's movement institutionalized women's fears of competition, success and power," he said. " 'Sisterhood' meant we are all going to stay down together."

Mrs. Lear, whose executive search firm specializes in finding women and minority executives, believes women are fooled by the media into thinking women are getting top jobs.

"Hardly a dozen women in America have great jobs. Hundreds more think they will be promoted to ones but I think it's a weak bet," she claimed. "It's a media hype to think that women are really getting good jobs."

The majority of women are stuck in the bottom echelons of retail stores, clerical and keypunch jobs, and Mrs. Lear feels the media does these women great disservice by ignoring their problems and frustrations. She has found that women are having more — not less — difficulty finding good jobs as affirmative action pressures ease.

She also notes that women are more often put into positions of authority than decision-making.

When women manage to get jobs with power, they tend to wield it differently than men. Research by Dr. Goodchilds shows that women use different methods of getting what they want done. When asked to describe how they got their way, women said they used emotional appeals and mood-setting to get their desires while men believed they used logical argument and claims of expertise.

These "womanly wiles" as a method of persuasion often go unrecognized by men, and Dr. Goodchilds believes this kind of power is ultimately ineffective. Power unrecognized is no power at all.

Dr. Goodchilds feels that women are caught in a dilemma if they wish to choose the more "masculine" methods of persuasion, however. While they may initially meet with greater approval among both men and women, this kind of behavior in women also leads to negative labels such as pushy, overbearing and even lesbian.

If women choose to combine both emotive and reasoning methods, their male bosses may not perceive that work goals are being achieved.

"Not having 'an old boy network' to rely on," said Carolin Dethrow, "I've often had to work out problems my own way. Bosses don't understand how you get things accomplished. We need to alter men's expectations of how to get things done."

Dr. Kantor's research on working women shows that the stereotyped image of the petty woman boss may arise when women are unable to gain significant power in their jobs.

"Petty women are a portrait of powerlessness," she said. "If you expect to wield less power, you have to exercise more on your subordinates. If you can't push above, you push below. They also fear replacement by their subordinates and hold back their talents."

Mrs. Ephron warned, however, that women should not allow the discrimination they feel to be used as an excuse for not attempting to excel. "We have to change," she believes. "We have to stop whining and get out there and do it."

Mrs. Lear thinks one way women are not using power is the lack of an "old girl" network. She believes women who have some power are afraid to share it with other women. "In the labor movement, small power exercised together becomes big power," she asserted. "But power for women at or near the top of corporate structures is diffused by the men already there."

Despite the obstacles for obtaining powerful positions, some women are getting them, and many other women are getting into business in promotable jobs. One of the ways they do this, believes Mrs. Ephron, is by learning to risk strong opinions and stands.

"Everybody doesn't have to love you," she said. "If you are going to take a serious position, you're going to alienate someone."

She also believes women must make others take them seriously. She recalled that early in her career as a journalist, she was dating a reporter from the New York Times — a paper she desperately wanted to work for at the time. She persuaded her friend to talk to Managing Editor Abe Rosenthal about interviewing her for a job.

Asked Rosenthal of the reporter, "What do you think of her writing?"

"I don't know," said Mrs. Ephron's friend, "I've never read anything she's written."

Dr. Kantor believes women can get powerful jobs if they succeed in finding jobs where they can take risks, make their work visible, and prove its relevancy to the employer. Carolin Dethrow sums it up by saying, "You take risks, gain expertise and initiate movement."

Dr. Goodchilds believes that working men will have to learn to perceive and accept alternate power strategies if more women are to reach top decision-making jobs. The traditional "feminine" traits of empathy and gentleness will have to be recognized as compatible with the "masculine" traits of competence and expertise of male-dominated business management.

But Mrs. Ephron wonders if it isn't the women who will have to change.

"There is a distinction between power and success," she said. "It's not enough to get the job or get the divorce. You must fundamentally change. That is the most important and most rewarding success."

Livingston tops Pomona school board race

By DAN NIEBRUGGE
PB Staff Writer

Frances Livingston, C. J. Mendoza and incumbent Don Donnelly were elected to four-year terms on the Pomona school board in Tuesday's election.

Mrs. Livingston was the leading vote getter with 4,578 votes to Mendoza's 4,205. Donnelly, with 3,881 votes, barely squeaked past Anne Meslovich, the Associated Pomona Teachers-backed candidate, who finished with 3,832 votes.

With 33.22 per cent of the 36,000-plus registered voters casting ballots, Mrs. Livingston received 17.35 per cent of the votes; Mendoza 15.94 per cent; Donnelly 14.71 per cent and Mrs. Meslovich 14.53 per cent.

Other results for school board showed Diamond Bar candidate Ila Goldstein fifth with 3,076 votes (11.66 per cent); Pomona Community Life Commisioner Don Barnes sixth with 2,613 votes (9.9 per cent); Riverside school educator A.H. Murray seventh with 2,172 votes (8.23 per cent) and Mt. San Antonio College student Daniel Applequist eighth with 2,016 votes (7.64 per cent).

Mrs. Livingston won big in her third campaign after a narrow defeat by trustee Eugene Whitlock two years ago. She has served on the district's superintendent selection committee and has also served on the municipal arts commission and the city's general plan committee. She is a self employed occupational therapist.

Reached early this morning, Mrs. Livingston said, "I'm overwhelmed and gratified. I didn't expect this large a vote of confidence. I know I will be a good representative. I did my very best to reach out to all segments of the community and convince them that I will be a good representative for all the children and parents. I probably had the least money of any candidate, but I think I showed that if you are hard working and take your campaign to enough people and show them you are sincere and honest you can win."

Mendoza is elected in his first try for public office. A well known figure in Pomona, he was a district teacher, counselor and principal for 30 years before moving to the Los Nietos School District in Whittier to become an assistant superintendent. Mendoza waged an active campaign and was the most heavily endorsed candidate in the race receiving endorsements from the Associated Pomona Teachers, the Association of Mexican American Educators, the Fifty-One Per Cent Coalition and several other individuals.

Donnelly, escaping defeat by 49 votes, is elected to his third term on the board. A Los Angeles County firefighter, he is also self employed as a labor relations consultant. He is a member of the board of the California School Boards Association.

Two incumbents win in Chino election

Two incumbents were returned to the Chino school board, a newcomer captured a four-year seat and a bond issue passed although a state loan request was defeated.

Augustine Tapia, first elected to the board in 1973 after an unsuccessful attempt in 1971, captured 1,496 of the votes for the four-year term, only two more than the second winner, Daniel Santo.

Santo received 1,494 votes of the total votes cast for the eight candidates for the four-year seat.

Al McCombs tallied more votes than any of the 10 candidates with 1,831. The only other opponent for the unexpired two-year term of Roy Ward was Paul Peterson who trailed far behind McCombs with only 1,589 votes.

McCombs, first elected to the board in 1969, and Santo, a financial manager and a relatively new resident of Chino, will probably tip the balance of opinion on the board on the controversial year-round school issue. In electing two YRS supporters to the board, Chino voters indicated their feelings on the issue at the polls. McCombs, Santo and present board member Pete Vander Poel have all indicated support of the year-round school.

Tapia has not been definitive in his feelings on the year-round school, not openly opposing or supporting it. Incumbent Lyle Briggs, however, is a vocal and adamant opponent of year-round school, and in that position is now in the minority on the board.

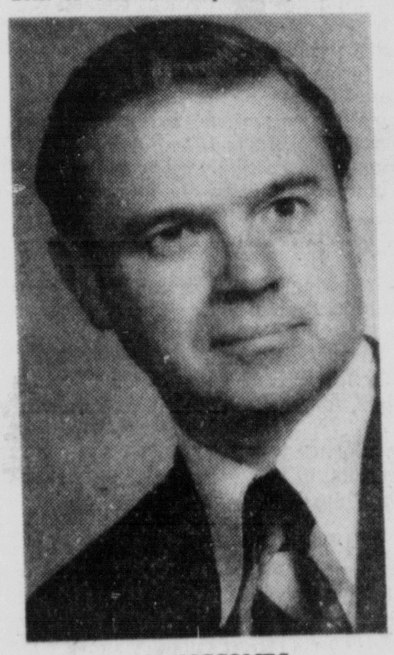

Earl Owens, another candidate who was an outspoken supporter of YRS, received only 41 less votes than Tapia, narrowly missing the four-year term with 1,455 votes.

The tally for the full term also included challengers Glenn Schumacher, 1,096; Patrick Hooven, 868; Gary Ingham, 531; Wayne McIntosh, 369; and Robert Pipersky, 233.

The $9.1 million bond issue passed with 2,596 votes, or 67.2 per cent. The no votes, 1,267, represented 32.7 per cent of the votes cast; and a two-thirds majority was needed for passage.

The state loan request for $14.8 million was defeated with 2,424 yes votes or 65.4 per cent, and 1,277 no votes, 34.5 per cent.

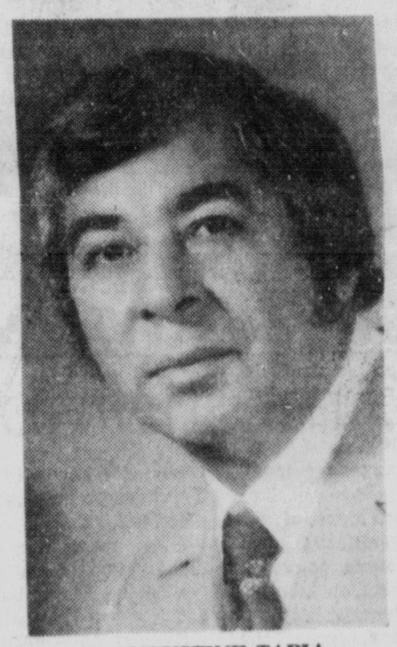

The building program to accommodate the escalating growth in Chino schools will be limited with only the one bond issue passed. A new Buena Vista Continuation High School will be built; additions will be made to Chino and Don Lugo high schools; and new elementary and junior high school sites will be purchased. Other projects may be announced at a later date.

Decision on X-rated films in San Dimas is delayed

By BOB SWETNAM
PB Staff Writer

Decision on an urgency ordinance that would have banned the showing of X-rated films in a local San Dimas theater and prohibited other adult uses in the area was postponed Tuesday night.

The ordinance, preventing the use of any property as an adult motion picture theater, adult book store, modeling studio or massage parlor, was tabled for two weeks to enable officials to re-write it.

City Manager Bob Poff reported he had received several complaints from residents when a local movie theater, the Canyon Theater, showed two X-rated films earlier this year.

While saying the emergency ordinance was not specificaly aimed at preventing the Canyon from showing such films, Poff said the incident had alerted the city to the fact that officials had no way of preventing dirty book stores, theaters, and prostitution from gaining a foothold in the area.

At present the city has no such problems.

Mayor Marvin Ersher said the city would pursue adoption of an anti-pornography anti-prostitution ordinance because of community concern over the problem. He said that he thought the ordinance presented Tuesday night had been poorly worded.

Under urgency ordinance procedures, the City Council can pass a four-month law without a public hearing. Officials apparently thought the problem was serious enough to warrant urgency status.

Tipping re-elected in Claremont

By GEORGE MacLAREN
PB Staff Writer

In a school board election without any strong issues, incumbent Maralyn Tipping, part-time college instructor Alice Oglesby and account manager Jim Merrill easily won seats on the Claremont school board for the next four years.

In final unofficial results, Mrs. Oglesby in her first political race led the field of five candidates with 2,991 votes. Merrill, a Claremont planning commissioner, also in his first election outing, was second with 2,891, with Mrs. Tipping a close third with 2,842.

Ray Ball received 1,316 votes and Lawrence Birch was last with 1,060.

Two of the winners were not at home Tuesday night as results of an election attracting 25 per cent of 17,567 registered voters came into the district office.

Mrs. Oglesby was teaching a microbiology course at Citrus College, and Merrill was in San Francisco on business.

Mrs. Oglesby attributed her success in all precincts including two Pomona precincts to her statement on the sample ballot, and a well-coordinated campaign committee headed by Diann Ring.

MARALYN TIPPING

The election will give the board a three-woman majority, but Mrs. Oglesby feels that her having experience in data analysis will change the idea that a board must have a business man in order to function.

Incumbent loses in MSAC board race; two triumph

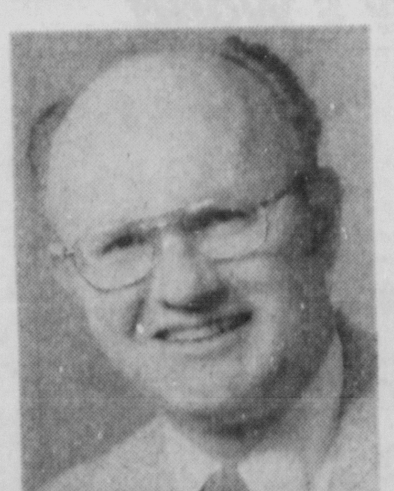

Alfred Diaz, a Pomona businessman and Kenneth Hunt, a college administrator from Hacienda Heights, appear to have won the two seats on the Mt. San Antonio College board of trustees in the Tuesday election.

The incumbent, Clifton C. Booth, came in third in the 11-candidate race. The final two precincts did not turn in their tallies until 8 a.m. today.

One candidate, Alfred Sanchez, received 2,517 votes although he officially withdrew as a candidate several weeks ago.

Even though the count was unofficial this morning, Diaz, with 9,659 votes, and Hunt, with 9,209 votes, were far ahead of Booth, whose total was 7,566.

Other candidates and their unofficial totals are; Bernadine Miller, 4,132; Michael A. Daniels, 3,904; Evelyn England, 3,221; Jean Barnes, 4,001; Bert C. Gray, 2,978; Frances Maschio, 5,384; and Marion Hayhurst, 1,603.

Suicide threat by Claremonter

A despondent, 33-year-old man was taken to a state mental hospital for observation Tuesday evening after locking himself in a shed and threatening suicide, Claremont police reported.

The incident was at 550½ W. Bonita Ave. Police said the man, John P. Marcalus, shut himself inside a photo lab with a .22-caliber rifle and threatened to kill himself after a domestic argument.

After about 45 minutes, Marcalus kicked open the door and allowed Officer Richard Mellem inside. Mellem quickly grabbed the rifle and escorted Marcalus outside. He was taken first to the Tri-City Mental Health Clinic in Pomona and later was transferred to Metropolitan State Hospital in Norwalk for examination, police reported.

Pomona cyclist hurt in crash

A motorcycle rider was injured late Tuesday afternoon when he struck the side of a turning car, Pomona police reported.

The accident was shortly after 5 p.m. at Foothill Boulevard and Sumner Court.

The cyclist, Evan B. Nutt II, 24, of Pomona, was taken to Pomona Valley Community Hospital where cuts on his chin and knee were stitched up, and he was released.

Fleet Reserve group to meet

The Pomona Valley branch of the Fleet Reserve Association will hold a regular meeting tonight at 8 at the American Legion Hall, 13130 Central Ave., Chino.

Shipmate Harry Duessent of Chino will discuss, "The Rush to Reduce Personnel benefits."

Kettle retains board seat in Alta Loma

Incumbent Nancy Kettle, Wayne M. Brindley and Robert Tangeman won the three open seats on the Alta Loma Elementary School District board of trustees Tuesday.

Mrs. Kettle, re-elected to a second term, was the top vote getter. She received 775 votes. Brindley received 677 votes, and Tangeman, 638.

Other candidates in that race and the number of votes they received, are: incumbent Robert Frost, 539; Patricia J. Tyler, 494; Donald R. Watters, 354; Peter J. Guth, 345; and Lawrence X. Johnson, 243.

Incumbent Walter D. Achuff did not seek re-election.

Will Carter have secrets?

All the world now knows that the Central Intelligence Agency made secret cash payments to eight, 10 or maybe a dozen foreign heads of states or national leaders. In the case of King Hussein of Jordan the "financial relationship" extended over a period of 20 years.

The Republic has not fallen. Soviet tanks are not rumbling in the streets of Washington.

The same information would have been available to Americans several years ago in a book called "The CIA and the Cult of Intelligence," written by Victor Marchetti, a former CIA official, and John D. Marks, a former State Department officer. Would have been, that is, had it not, along with dozens of other still suppressed passages, been censored by a federal judge as a result of a civil suit brought against the authors by the CIA.

Would the Republic have fallen then, or Soviet tanks have rumbled in the streets of Washington?

Evidently the court believed the danger to the national security was great enough to warrant one of the rare instances of press censorship in our history. No doubt the CIA would still be preventing disclosure of the information if it could.

But the truth will out, as they say, and although the named recipients have to a man denied the allegations, such has been the recent experience of Americans with regard to official deception, lying and subterfuge that they are willing to believe anything about the cloak-and-dagger boys.

We will probably never know what, if any, benefits accrued to the United States from these secret transfers of millions of taxpayer dollars to friends or informants overseas. If the CIA never admits its blunders, neither does it publicize its successes.

All we know is that the revelations restate one of the most difficult questions that can face a democracy: How far can a free nation go in defending itself against its enemies before it risks destroying the very bedrock principle on which it is founded, the principle that government ultimately rests upon the informed consent of the governed?

Since some things must surely be kept from common knowledge because of the nature of the world in which we live, the question can be answered by only one man — the president, the Commander-in-Chief, the People's Tribune.

For reasons best known to himself, former President Ford did not act on the information which all the world now knows. President Carter has acted, at least to the extent of ending the payments to King Hussein, and has announced an "intensive and comprehensive" review of foreign intelligence operations.

But would he have done so if the stories about the payments had not first appeared in the press? Will he do so in the future in other matters which neither the press nor the public is yet aware of?

An affirmative answer to these questions can only be made on faith.

Protestors just plain folks

Speaking of movements that have resulted in less than spectacular changes in society, whatever happened to the "protest" generation of the 1960s?

The Family Service Association of America interviewed some 6,000 parents in their twenties and thirties to find out whether the rebels of a decade ago had preserved their idealism as they moved into the "real world."

As reported in Redbook magazine, it appears they are living lives much like those of their parents and are raising their children the same way they were raised. Pacifists Joan Baez and Abbie Hoffman, for instance, let their children play with war toys, and onetime radical Rennie Davis works for an investment company.

In a couple of important areas, today's young parents are indeed different from their parents, or are trying to be different:

They are more honest and open about the sexual education of their children, and mothers are urging their daughters to reach out for the opportunities of life. Also, the fathers are taking a more active part in the everyday raising of their children.

Otherwise, however, nearly all the parents interviewed admitted that they are more like their own parents than they would have believed. As one young woman put it, "I've read all the books. I want to do the latest thing. Yet sometimes when I'm talking to my child, I can listen to myself and hear my mother's voice."

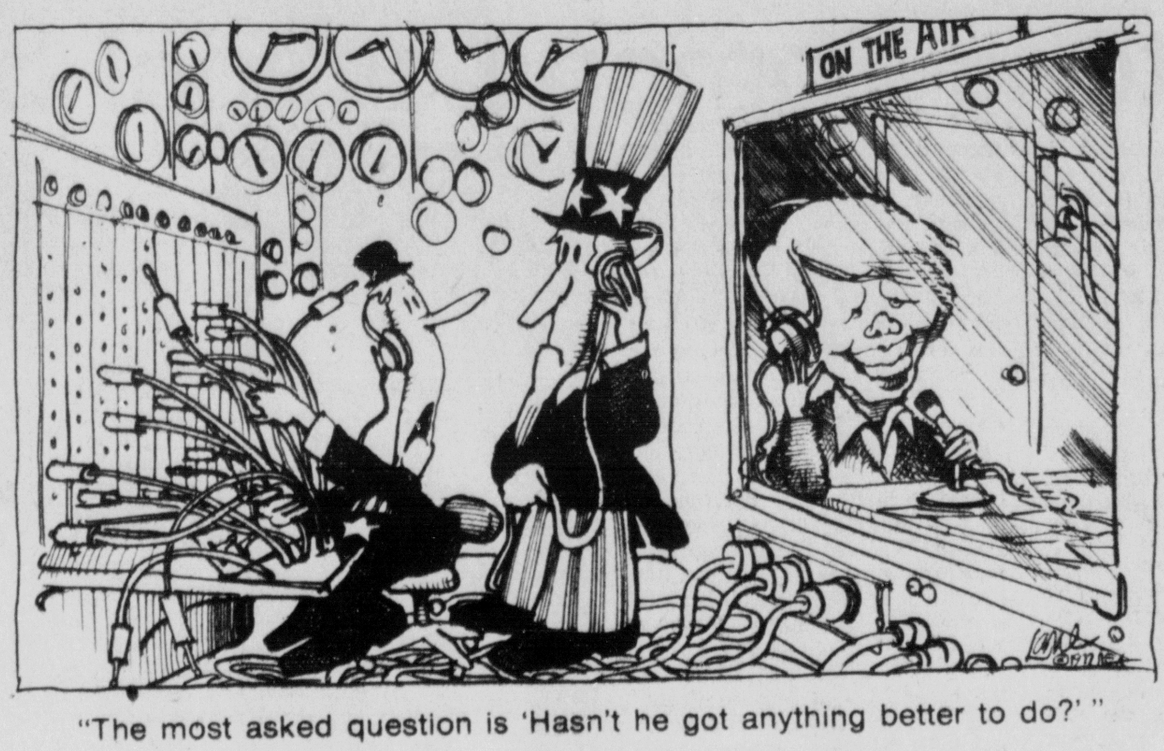

Or to paraphrase Mark Twain: It's amazing how much smarter than our parents we are when we're young — and how much they've learned by the time we reach their age.

Thought

"All these things my hand has made, and so all these things are mine, says the Lord. But this is the man to whom trembles at my word." — Isaiah 66:2.

"I believe the first test of a truly great man is his humility." — John Ruskin, English novelist.

Fee structure explained

Dear Editor:

In your editorial, "The system is wrong," published on Feb. 27, you would have your readers believe that the attorneys who serve the courts by accepting appointments to represent indigent defendants are gouging the county. As a panel attorney, I am dismayed at the inaccuracy and misrepresentation which is set forth in the editorial. Each attorney who is appointed pursuant to Section 987.2 of the California Penal Code to represent the indigent criminal defendant, must furnish the court with a declaration for payment of fees prior to receiving payment.

You are invited to inspect any number of files in the clerk's office which contain these declarations, and you will note that the attorney merely sets out the hours expended in handling this case, and the individual judges evaluate those declarations and set the fees according to a standard set out by the county.

While it is true that payment approximates $30 to $40 per hour, this fee structure has been in existence for many, many years, despite the increase in office rental, secretarial cost, and other increased overhead expenses, most notably the recent increase in telephone costs. We are not paid for travel time, as set out, but are only paid on the basis of actual work performed. Unfortunately our families and secretaries must eat, we must pay rent, telephone bills, and purchase newspapers. None of the foregoing are gratis.

You point out that as private attorneys, we "charge and get — five times as much" for our services as county employes do. May I indicate that we do not receive retirement benefits, nor do we have our offices or overhead provided for us. Within the fee framework set out by county regulation, we are expected to maintain our office, and also serve those citizens in the private sector who also engage our services.

It would be well taken by your editorial writer to investigate and determine the number of attorneys who perform certain services for the court without compensation whatsoever. I am not only referring to the number of times that appearances will be made on behalf of an appointed client, and the county is not billed, but I refer to those of us who are called to sit as temporary judges, "Pro Tempore" from time to time, and do not get compensated for such work because, as officers of the court, we are proud to serve. When there are shortages of judges, or one of our regular judges is on vacation, those places are sometimes taken by private attorneys volunteering their time without any cost to the county of Los Angeles, but at a definite cost of loss of income to the individual who fills the position.

I agree with your last contention that there may be many lawyers who would be willing to work for far less than the $30 to $40 per hour, but I doubt if there are very many facilities which will provide them with free office space, free secretarial help, free research personnel, and all of the other factors which go to make up an overhead factor in running a law office.

Unless your newspaper intends to provide such services to the county for the purpose of employing this type of attorney, I might suggest that you look for another solution.

I failed to comment on the quality of the legal services that might be provided by such individuals. For such an analogy I might suggest that you look at some of the companion professions to determine the quality of services provided to persons by those individuals who specialize in so-called "price cutting."

Your editorial points out many factors, but neglects the rights of the indigent defendants who cannot afford legal counsel. Along with your First Amendment right regarding the privileges of a free press, each and every citizen within this county is entitled to adequate counsel at all stages of any proceeding which jeopardizes his freedom. I would hope that your newspaper would subscribe to this basic doctrine.

May I suggest that your journalist make an in depth investigation of this situation, and provide more responsible reporting than was evidenced in the three very superficial articles which were printed prior to the editorial.

Damaged U.S. memorabilia

WASHINGTON — Several priceless historical documents, including Benjamin Franklin's copy of the Articles of Confederation and the original manuscript of the Battle Hymn of the Republic, were damaged aboard the Freedom Train.

The 12-car special completed a 26,000-mile Bicentennial journey in 1975-76, bringing a display of American memorabilia to 48 states. Nearly seven million people thronged through the train to inspect the precious exhibits.

Before the train hit the rails, the Smithsonian Institution provided strict instructions on the care and keeping of historical documents. For example, the temperature was supposed to be kept around 70 degrees, the humidity level at 50 per cent.

Yet we have seen the confidential correspondence between the Smithsonian and the train, revealing that the climate on board was not healthy for aging parchments. As late as July 1976, the train's curator admitted that charts measuring temperature and humidity were still "very erratic" and showed "rapid oscillation in humidity."

Eventually, the train encased the Smithsonian documents in special cabinets, but the items from lesser lenders received less tender treatment.

Peter Spurney, president of the Freedom Train Foundation, explained how difficult it was to create a museum environment on board a train. "It was the difference between the Smithsonian and a circus," he told our reporter, Gilda Le Patner.

At least the train was better insulated, he said, than the original 1947 Freedom Train, which controlled the heat by piling ice on the roof.

At the end of the journey, the Bicentennial special delivered back to the owners a number of torn documents, cracked trophies and chipped sculpture. Aside from the wrinkling of Ben Franklin's 1775 copy of the Articles of Confederation and rips in three corners of the original Battle Hymn of the Republic manuscript, here are a few more of the casualties:

The leatherbound cover of the late Rev. Martin Luther King's Bible had corroded; a shrinking and expanding damaged the Delaware Ratification; a rip was lengthened in Jim Thorpe's Olympic scroll; an original Edison phonograph record melted inside its sealed case; one page in a 1756 edition of Poor Richard's Almanac reportedly began to curl; a Navajo Yei blanket and cachina doll were damaged.

A few items also disappeared, including two Bicentennial coin sets, two World Series baseball pennants and a set of baseball cards.

Repairs have been made and ruffled feelings soothed. But as one of the train's curators put it: "Once damage occurs, it cannot be undone. An item can be repaired, but this is devaluing to the item."

NEW WASHINGTON LANGUAGE — Budget boss Bert Lance, taking his cue from President Jimmy Carter, is trying to change the strange language that is spoken in Washington. He has decreed that acronyms and abbreviations should no longer be used in official letters and reports. This may help to make them understandable to the public at large.

For years, the official bureaucratic language has been laced with acronyms. "The Dictionary of Naval Abbreviations," for example, is known as DICNAVAB. This strange word may make sense to those who speak expert Pentagonese, but in Plains, Ga., DICNAVAB may as well be Chinese.

Paul Harvey

Not all unemployed are

The next unemployment figure will reflect cold-weather layoffs. Discounting that extraordinary month, the jobless rate is the least it's been in eight months, and the number of American workers working — 88.6 million — is an all-time record high.

And the statistics are "worse than the facts" when you realize that it is unemployment among teen-agers — 18.7 percent — which distorts the picture.

Teen-age unemployment is always more than for others.

Most every fast-food restaurant would like to employ more youngsters but can't because the legal minimum wage is the same for them as for us.

Employers are required to pay the most unskilled workers $2.30 an hour — so a lot of employers who would like more help can't afford it.

And now Congress is contemplating raising that minimum wage to $3 an hour.

Some labor leaders, opposing any differential for younger workers, fear that older workers would be displaced if there were a pay differential.

Certainly, says Rep. John Dent (D-Pa.), "We don't want to encourage a substitution of teen-agers for breadwinners."

Yet the most recent Labor Department study of this subject reached the inescapable conclusion that as the federal minimum wage goes up, the number of teen-age unemployed goes up.

In Dade County, Fla., teen-age unemployment exceeds 50 percent. Most of these are blacks or Cuban refugees. Forty percent of those interviewed there say they are looking for work; more than half would willingly work for less than the $2.30 minimum wage.

Most every hotel and restaurant in the area says it could afford more busboys and bellhops and carparkers and such if it could pay each less.

Let me add that there are reportedly many employers in Dade County and elsewhere who are hiring teen-agers — for less than the legal minimum — paying them in cash, circumventing the law.

Federal officials say that enforcement is difficult and will become increasingly more difficult if the base wage is raised higher.

One restaurateur in a black district of south Miami says only 10 percent of the local teen-agers are employed. He said he could hire more if he could pay less.

Also, he says many are "worthless" because, he protests, "schools are producing eleventh graders who can't make change for a dollar bill."

He says they would learn more working for him than going to school, but he can't afford to hire trainees.

So, he has to turn them away and, too frequently, he says, they return with a gun.

Just in jest

As a result of the surgeon general's "it can be injurious to your health" warning and the vociferous effects of anti-tobacco smoking crusaders, six million American nicotine addicts are now using snuff. They have two methods by which they thus outwit their adversaries; they either inhale their snuff through the nose or let it slowly disintegrate under the tongue.

Fastidious tobacco habit slaves are using these methods for getting their daily allowance of nicotine rather than resorting to tobacco chewing, which at times can become a bit messy since it involves periodic spitting. To be sure, nose sniffing snuffers are now and then guilty of a bit of noisy sneezing, but it is nothing that a discreet "Gesundheit" doesn't make perfectly proper.

Under-the-tongue snuffers, on the other hand, have the big advantage of being able to pursue their habit secretly, thereby avoiding offensive spitting and even the more dangerous sin of blowing smoke into irate anti-nicotine crusaders' faces. — So it's no wonder the cigar manufacturers, who had hoped to take over what the surgeon general scared off, are becoming a bit uneasy.

After all, six million snuffers represent a sizeable segment of the tobacco market; and if their numbers keep on increasing they may even drive that sexy TV commercial Muriel out of her job.

And that, I say, would be a disaster no red blooded American male could tolerate. So here and now I am organizing a "Stamp Out Snuff and Save Muriel" crusade. Active members will be identified by the secret initials TOADS which stand for "Tell on All Dirty Snuffers."

Crime in our parks

By EARL G. WATERS

Legislation extending powers of arrest of federal law enforcement officers has been proposed by Assemblyman Bill McVittie. Under present law the federal agents may make arrests only in cases involving specific federal crimes. Thus, even though present at a holdup or murder, such agents have no more authority than a private citizen.

In support of his measure McVittie has said "it would allow federal offices to make arrests in California for offenses when local peace officers are not readily available."

Whatever prompted McVittie to seek what is in effect an enlargement of the total law enforcement capability within the state, his bill may directly answer the problems of the national park rangers.

These are described in the current California Western Law Review by James F. Watts, one of its editors.

According to him, visitors to national parks have increased dramatically since World War II and, in many instances, the annual impact "exceeds by many times the total population" of a state. "Unfortunately," he reports, "the crime rate throughout the National Park System has, in recent years, been increasing many times the visitation rate."

Watts cited figures showing a total of 29,530 major crimes committed in national parks in the six-year period through 1974. These included homicide, rape, robbery, assault burglary, grand larceny and auto theft. Additionally, in 1974 alone, 13,426 lesser offenses were reported. These involved narcotics, forgery, fraud, embezzlement and vandalism.

He suggests the rise in crime in the parks may be partially due to easy accessibility and that also those who prey upon the public find "easy marks" in summer vacation spots.

"Narcotic vendors and users have reportedly discovered a supposed sanctuary." Whatever the reasons for the increased criminal activity, Watts says it is greatest "in the rural national parks where rangers are most likely to be the only law enforcement officers in the vicinity."

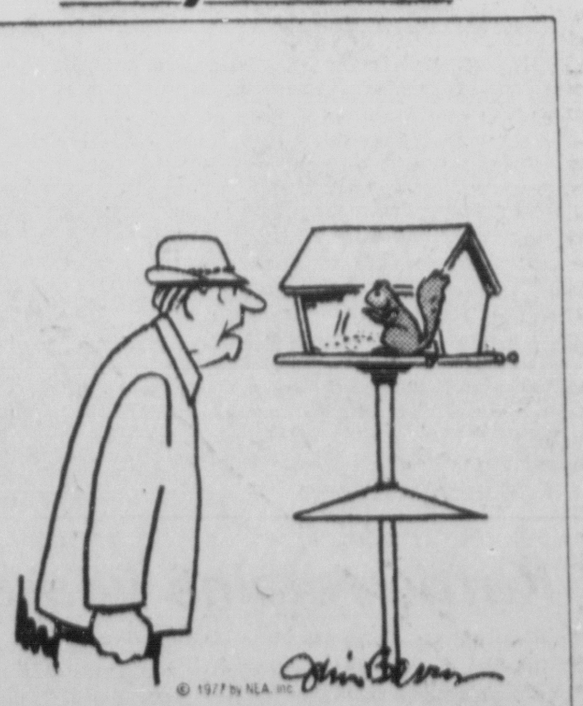

But, as Watts notes, the park rangers are empowered to enforce only federal laws and park rules. He explains the limitations and risks involved in making citizen arrests in other cases. The difficulties in calling upon state and local officers are outlined. In most cases they are not staffed to handle the burden created by thousands of out-of-state park visitors. And, generally, they are not based near enough to the parks to provide effective enforcement.

An alternative, that of deputizing rangers by local sheriffs, Watts explains is not the answer. In many instances local laws bar their deputization and the problem of liability for their actions or injuries is another factor. It also stands in the way of deputization by U.S. marshals.

"The major problem which contributed significantly to the failure of state deputization programs was anticipated long ago and led to rejection of the federal deputization plan," Watts states.

Although he proposes several alternatives requiring congressional action to meet the specific problems of the park rangers, McVittie's bill, being broader and including all federal law officials, would seem to remedy the ranger troubles as well as those of others operating within California. Admittedly it can't help rangers outside of the state but it might spark similar measures in the other states or serve to awaken Congress to the needs outlined by Watts.

Ann Landers

Throw the drunken bum out

Dear Ann: I married a guy 10 years my senior when I was 19. Bill was handsome, a smooth talker and my first serious love affair. My parents didn't like him because he showed up intoxicated a few times and said some things that weren't true. Of course the more they talked against Bill, the more determined I was to prove them wrong.

When my father came home with a complete report from a private investigator, I learned Bill had been married and had a son. He admitted it, claimed he was afraid to tell me for fear he'd lose me. We eloped the next night.

My life has been plain hell ever since. We have two small children. My mother keeps them while I work. Bill can't hold a job because of his drinking. He denies he has a problem, won't go to AA, refuses to talk to our clergyman.

When Bill gets drunk (which is often), he becomes violent. The children are afraid of him and so am I.

I learned last week he has been bringing women to our home while I'm at work. I'm heartsick and fed up. My doctor says I will get rid of my colitis when I get rid of my husband.

My clergyman says I should get out of this marriage while I still have a chance to make a life for myself. I'm only 27 and I feel like 90. What should I do? — Messed Up Early

Dear Early: The motion has been made by your doctor and seconded by your clergyman. I'm with them. Throw the bum out.

Dear Ann Landers: Our neighbors caught their 13-year-old son smoking. They told him, "If you want to smoke we'd rather you do it in front of us than behind our backs." They reasoned if the boy was permitted to smoke, he'd overdo it, get sick, and quit forever.

Well, he didn't get sick and he's not quitting. It's revolting to see this young punk puffing away in front of his friends. Now our son (age 14) wants to know why HE can't smoke. We need help. — Battle Weary In Whyoming

Dear Bat: Tell your son he can't smoke because it's bad for him and to drop the subject for at least eight years.

The parents of that 13-year-old have oatmeal where their brains belong. Too bad the boy may have to pay a big price for his parents' stupidity.

Dear Ann Landers: The following was received in the mail recently: "Dear Friends: Mom and Dad would like to go to Hawaii for their 25th wedding anniversary and we would like to help them make it possible. We also want to extend the opportunity to you if you would like to make a financial contribution toward their trip. We are not asking you to do so, merely leaving the opportunity open to you. You may use the envelope provided.

These people have plenty of money, Ann. How does one respond to such an "offer?" It was enclosed with an invitation to attend a reception in honor of the anniversary. — Confused In California

Dear Confused: Attend the reception if you wish — if not, stay home. If you feel like contributing toward a trip to Hawaii for a couple who "has plenty of money," go ahead. Speaking for myself, that's an offer I could easily refuse.

Dog shouldn't take cold pills

DEAR DR. MILLER: Seeker, my dog, gets even more colds than I do. I give her my cold pills which have an antihistamine and an expectorant. What else can I do for her? — L.V.

DEAR L.V.: First, quit giving her your pills. Even if she was having just a "series of colds," which is unlikely, your human pills are for the birds as far as canines are concerned. In the first place, the chance of your giving the right dosage of the ingredients is remote. Secondly, a combination of an antihistamine and an expectorant gives one drug which dries out mucus membranes and another which promotes mucus secretions. The net effect is nothing helpful since they cancel each other out, and there are still possibly undesirable side-effects from either one of them.

The moral: no medication is invariably preferable to the wrong medicine, or even the right medicine — in the wrong dosage. The second important step, seek out Seeker's doctor for a decision as to what's really going on regarding this canine's continuous "cold" syndrome.

DEAR DR. MILLER: I'm about to get a bird, either a parakeet or a canary. I love them both, so it doesn't make much difference, except I'd like to get the one that would live the longest. Which would that be? — R.F.

DEAR R.F.: Some bird-oriented veterinarians feel canaries may live a little longer. In my own practice, heredity and care factors being equal, I see little difference in longevity between canaries and parakeets. With rare exceptions in both species, few make it into their teens.

DEAR DR. MILLER: My last hamster died. Mother thinks it's because she couldn't deliver her babies. Maybe her hips were too small. My new hamster, Hilda, seems to have nice, broad hips. Would that help her to not have trouble when she has babies? — E.D.

DEAR E.D.: If broad-hipped Hilda had babies, she could still have problems. It isn't how broad hips are, anyway, it's how wide the pelvic canal on the inside of the hips is, that has a bearing on ease or difficulty in delivery. In other words, it's the inside measurements that count. For that matter, pelvic hamster hamgups aren't all that common anyway. Odds are, if your hamster has trouble delivering a litter, the cause would be something unrelated to size.

For Thursday, March 10, 1977

ARIES (March 21-April 10) Be extremely careful who you choose as a business associate today. The wrong person could lose money for both of you.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Impromptu decisions or those spurred by anger have a deleterious effect upon you today. Do nothing from haste or aggravation.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Neither promise more than you can deliver today nor harass subordinates to save face. You'll reap only heartaches.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Should you have a tendency to gamble for high stakes today, please subdue it. You get nothing for nothing.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Details elude you today. You could fashion what you think is a perfect wheel but neglect to use enough spokes!

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Being boastful or arrogant is a sure way to turn off those who are on your side. Humility makes friends out of enemies.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) It's one thing if you waste your own resources today, but much worse to squander another's trust.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) You can become adamant if someone tries to foist their opinions off on you, especially where your self-interests are concerned.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Problems today will be mostly self-created. You could avoid them by not sticking your nose in other people's business.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) You're frugal in certain areas today but in other activities you're too extravagant. Cut down on nonessentials.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) An excessive amount of your energy is apt to be spent on insignificant goals. Clarify your objective or the day could be unproductive.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) One-upmanship isn't your game today. If someone tells a tall tale, you'll only look foolish by trying to top it.

Your Birthday, March 10, 1977

Opportunity knocks and knocks and knocks for you this year. The problem is not the breaks, but whether you know how to handle them.

King Kong gets the gong

This time the Russians have gone too far!

It's bad enough that they enslave countries, send everyone to Siberia and won't let the Bolshoi Ballet play the Met — atrocities, indeed-but now the savage Soviets have taken it upon themselves to attack "King Kong"! If I were Carter, I would put the matter before the Untied Nations. Call this detent? (From the Fr. detente, from detendre, to relax, unbend.) An unprovoked assault on Fay Raye. I'll unbend them!

"The horrible grin of a gorilla is helping Americans to forget unemployment lines, inflation and the high cost of living," sneered a Russian movie critic in the Literary Gazette. So? What's wrong with that? Does the horrible grin of Brezhnev, who strongly resembles King Kong, help the Rooskies forget their own oppression? Writing more for a bunch of Slavs than for knowledgeable film fans, the critic said the movie "makes men burst into tears from horror and women scream hysterically." Actually the men are weeping over the price of the tickets, and the women are screaming because they have lost their shoes.

According to the Soviet view, sensational films like "King Kong," "Earthquake," "The Towering Inferno" and "Jaws" are the new opiate of the masses, providing a release for fears and frustrations of life in a capitalist society. How viewing "Earthquake" helps Southern Californians escape their fears is one of those involved sophistries of Soviet logic that lets them call themselves republics.

Pravda, the Communist party newspaper, said "King Kong" has a veneer of "socio-political pseudo-problems," a phrase rivaling a school board pronouncement for obfuscation.

Pseudo-problems, Ivan? You get a 30-foot ape up on one of your skyscrapers, and let's see YOU talk about "pseudo-problems." Nothing socio-political about it — you got a real problem. Send in the MIGs to shoot him down, waaaar-waaaar! Troops in the street, tanks, machine guns — you don't think that would take the minds of the Turko-Tartars off unemployment and the vodka shortage? Ha!

The Politboro is obviously jealous because our sharks are bigger than theirs, our flaming skyscrapers taller, our gorillas hairier and our girls prettier. If they filmed their version of "King Kong," they'd have a gorilla dragging a hefty female tractor driver down the steppes. They'd call it "Peter and the Ape," and the Bolshoi would dance it. Probably get X-rated, too, by the vulgar boatmen.

Compared to life in Russia, a disaster film must look like Shangri-La.

Care needed in weight gain

DEAR DR. LAMB — My problem is that I am 5 feet 10 and only 140 pounds. There is so much information on losing weight and so little on how to gain it. Please help me and the many others who want to gain weight.

Is it best to start on a weight-training course or should I try to put on weight first and then go on a weight-training course?

Can I gain more weight by eating more, while limiting my activities, or can I gain weight faster using a weight-training course? What vitamins will help me gain weight? I would appreciate any information you can give me.

DEAR READER — This question is asked far more often than you realize. It is asked most often by young men and may be related to our stereotyped concept of masculinity. Adding pounds of fat to your torso will not increase your maleness.

It will only increase your chances of having a major problem with obesity later in life and the chances of having arterial disease that causes heart attacks, strokes and even decreases a male's sexual capacity earlier in life than would otherwise occur. Many think that extra blubber is actually unsightly.

At your height 140 pounds is just fine. If you want to improve your body contours so that you appear more muscular you need a muscle strength training program. I am not implying you need to develop large bulging muscles, but rather to firm up your body and if you have body fat convert it to muscle.

When a young man says I want to gain weight it is necessary to know if he wants to gain muscle size, strength, or wants some blubber on his torso. It makes a difference. If you want to emulate the fat, stock show animal all you need to do is be inactive, use as few calories as possible and stuff yourself with rich foods, to take in as many calories as possible. Such a program will help you get fat and sloppy if that is your goal.

Otherwise I recommend a strength-training program. You can build muscle strength and reasonable size without adding a lot of fat to the body. In most instances the key to success is the exercise program. As you load a muscle when it contracts, it grows stronger and bigger to be able to lift that amount of weight easily.

There are right and wrong ways of doing this. I am sending you The Health Letter number 5-4, Weight Training for Energy and Weight Control. As you develop and maintain muscles your muscle mass will help keep you from getting fat. So, developing muscles is good for those who want to avoid obesity, including women, and for those who want to develop a stronger, healthier, muscular body. Others who want this information can send 50 cents for it with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for mailing. Send your request to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

When you develop adequate strength of the muscles you need for sports it makes it easier to be successful. A person who wants to play tennis is wise to develop the arm and shoulder muscles by a good training program.

Vitamins will not help you gain weight unless you have a vitamin deficiency. They do not provide calories for energy nor do they provide protein for building body tissues. They merely provide the chemical catalyst that your body's enzyme system uses to process your calorie-containing foods; fats, proteins and carbohydrates.

Some gestures known worldwide

There are certain gestures that people make with their hands that are said to be universally understood by all. The rubbing together of the thumb and forefinger, for instance. It's understood to mean money in every society that uses money. The tapping of the forefinger against the temple, that's another one. Everybody sees it to mean some sort of craziness. And the stroking of the chin between thumb and forefinger is read everywhere as a sign of contemplation or concentration.

LOVE AND WAR

Q. "Ask your Love and War man if a girl should let a man know she's wearing a wig on the first date?"

A. Why not? Say you're saving display of your real hair for a special occasion, just in case one such ever comes up, advises our L. and W. man. Wait, that would be tactless. Better just say nothing and play it by ear.

HABIT

Note a scholar observes in print that people in general waste half their lives routinely doing unnecessary things out of force of habit. Can't buy it. Habit saves more time than anything. If you had to recalculate the simple ritual everytime you wanted to comb your hair, brush your teeth, take a shower, eat, check the mail, whatever, it would take you forever to do the daily deeds. Habit's a godsend.

Give a child a new toy and he will experiment with it. Some bridge players do the same thing with a new bid.

South had heard about the super two notrump response to show 18 or 19 points and a balanced hand. You respond two notrump. If partner continues to three notrump you go on to four — not as Blackwood, but rather to show this 18 to 19 points.

South wanted to try it out and finally did, but with an 18 or 19 point hand.

West decided there might well be some reason to conceal his six-card spade suit and opened the deuce. South won with the queen and could only count to nine top tricks. This left him with a choice of club and heart finesses for his contract, but South thought he saw a better way to recover from the trouble his bid of one too many notrump had caused.

He simply cashed the four top diamonds. West shed a spade and a club, whereupon South threw him in with a spade. It looked so easy. The defense could take three spade tricks and then would have to lead a club or a heart. Unfortunately, for South, West cashed four spade tricks.

Ask the Jacobys

A Nebraska reader asks if the bidding proceeds on club-pass-one spade-pass-two hearts-pass is that two heart bid by opener a one-round force.

The answer is that in modern expert bidding it is played as a one-round force, but in most systems this reverse bid is merely played as very strong, but not quite forcing.

Symposium slated at local hospital

"Clinical Evaluation of the Critically Injured" will be the topic of a Saturday symposium at Pomona Valley Community Hospital.

Sponsored by the nursing education department, the program will provide six hours of continuing education credit.

The all-day presentation on "Trauma" will cover such areas as initial emergency transportation; staying ahead of shock; danger signals in the patient with head injury; nursing care; multiple orthopedic and tissue damage; genito-urinary tract trauma; thorasic injuries and respiratory problems.

Key speakers will be Nurse Marie Westfall, emergency supervisor; Nurse Yvonne Anderson, critical care; and Dr. James Beason, Dr. Wilson O. Rigdon, and Dr. Charles Wesley Thum and Dr. Artemire Pagdan.

For further information persons may call 623-8715, ext. 1463.

Earthquake program

Chuck Coyne, author of "The Earthquake Handbook," will address the Sunday meeting of the West End Emergency Radio Team.

The meeting will be held at 7 p.m. in the meeting room of Santa Fe Federal Savings, 1 So. Euclid Ave., Ontario.

Coyne will talk about earthquake safety and preparation and present a slide show about earthquakes.

Metric workshop

A metric workshop for parents of Emergency School Aid Act (ESSA) math students at Palomares Junior High School and Pomona High School will be held Thursday from 7 to 9 p.m., at the Palomares math lab.

The workshop will be directed by Marilyn Hocking, ESAA project assistant for secondary mathematics; Julie Parker, math resource teacher at Palomares Junior High, and Frances Primus, math resource teacher at Pomona High. Forty parents of seventh and ninth grade students have been invited to attend.

During the workshop, parents will gain experience in using metrics, working in the areas of weight, temperature, length, and capacity. Parents will engage in learning activities similar to those their children experience in all levels of the ESAA mathematics program.

Film selected

CineFactor 8, Inc., a local industrial motion picture production company that produced "Help Us Help You!" for the Pomona Police Department, has another of its films selected for presentation at the annual Los Angeles International Film Exposition.

The film is entitled, "What's a Buena Park?" and was produced two years ago to coincide with an advertising campaign by the City of Buena Park.

It will be shown Sunday. The exposition will take place at the ABC Entertainment Center in Century City Thursday through March 27.

Poker ride

The California State Horsemen's Association, Region 11 will sponsor a "Poker ride" on April 9 at Ingalls Park in Norco. Prizes will be given to the winners.

The ride is in conjunction with Horse Week in Norco. Activities include a rodeo, horse show, trail ride and Easter sunrise service at Ingalls Park on Easter Sunday.

The proceeds will be used to help junior activities, such as a junior horsemastership program and a queen's contest. Persons may call Bud Duke 628-8392.

S.S. report must be submitted

People who earned over $2,760 and got one or more monthly social security retirement, dependent, or survivors checks in 1976, must submit an annual report of their earnings to Social Security by April 15, reports A. Lorraine Brannen, Social Security district manager in Pomona.

The report shows how much was earned in wages and self-employment income last year by people who got monthly Social Security payments, and how much they expect to earn this year.

"The report will be used to determine if people were paid the correct amount of Social Security benefits for 1976," Mrs. Brannen said. "It will also be used to adjust their monthly 1977 social security payments according to their estimated earnings."

Full Social Security benefits could be paid to eligible people in 1976 if they earned $2,760 or less for the year. But no matter how much they earned for the year, they could be paid their full Social Security benefits for any month they earned $230 or less and didn't do substantial work in their own business.

The figures for 1977 are $3,000 for the year and $250 a month. "People who file an annual report late or don't file one that's due may suffer a penalty," Mrs. Brannen said.

People who were 72 or over in all months of 1976 don't need to file an annual report of their earnings.

"If you have any questions about the annual report or need an earnings report form, call or write any Social Security office," Mrs. Brannen said.

3 expelled at Pomona

The Pomona school board has voted to expel three Pomona High School students who were discovered in a car containing two shotguns and two handguns parked next to the school on Feb. 10.

The three students were discovered in the car by Pomona police. They are Kenneth Martin, Ray Ortiz and Gregory Rodriguez.

The United States has 145,000 megatons of shale oil resources according to the 1974 World Energy Conference figures.

Walnut plans skateboard marathon

Students at Walnut High School are planning their third annual skateboard marathon from 6 p.m. Friday to 6 p.m. Sunday.

During the 48-hour event they hope to raise $10,000 for the Muscular Dystrophy Association.

This year's "Hang Ten" event is being supported by the Walnut Junior Woman's Club.

Bill Kroah and Ken Reynolds are chairmen.

Rayon patent

The first known patent for rayon was taken out in 1855 by George Andemars, but rayon was perfected by Sir Joseph San in 1883.

Today in History
By The Associated Press

Today is Wednesday, March 9, the 68th day of 1977. There are 297 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1862, the first battle between ironclad ships was fought in the Civil War encounter between the Monitor and Merrimac at Hampton Roads, Va.

On this date:

In 1796, Napoleon Bonaparte married Josephine.

In 1860, the first Japanese ambassador to the United States arrived in San Francisco, accompanied by a delegation of 74 men.

In 1916, Mexicans under Pancho Villa attacked Columbus, N. M., killing 15 people.

In 1942, the Japanese completed the conquest of the Dutch island of Java in World War II.

In 1970, the United States declined to recognize the new white-ruled Republic of Rhodesia and closed the U.S. consulate in the African country.

Ten years ago: An airliner and a small plane collided near Urbana, Ohio, and both crashed, killing 26 people.

Five years ago: President Richard M. Nixon ordered all airlines to adopt new tighter security measures to prevent hijackings and sabotage.

One year ago: Forty-two skiers were killed when a cable car plunged 200 feet to the ground near the northern Italian city of Trento.

Today's birthdays: Composer Samuel Barber is 67. Conductor Thomas Schippers is 47.

Thought for today: Man learns little from victory but much from defeat. — a Japanese proverb.

Cincinnati tap water tainted

CINCINNATI (AP) — It's enough to drive a person to drink.

But how do you wet your whistle when your drinking water contains carbon tetrachloride, soft drinks are scarce because of a strike and coffee-producing countries raise the price of your morning brew?

In this southwestern Ohio city of 450,000, which voted three times not to fluoridate, the presence of carbon tetrachloride in the drinking water supply threw residents into a frenzy.

U.S. Environmental Protection Agency officials admitted last month that tap water in Cincinnati was found to contain levels of carbon tetrachloride that reached 84 parts per billion, a level some considered dangerous.

The EPA considers normal concentrations of the chemical, which is used in dry cleaning and has caused cancer in laboratory animals, to be between 5 and 10 parts per billion.

Bottled water companies did well last year when fluoridation began, but that was minor compared to the business they've done here since the first 70-ton slug of carbon tetrachloride floated down the Ohio River last month from a source that has not been pinpointed.

A chemical plant in South Charleston, W.Va., said a second spill was accidentally leaked from its plant into the Kanawha River, a tributary of the Ohio River.

"I've never seen anything like it," said Dave Wenger, a food store manager. "One man ordered enough water to fill a bathtub. He said he refuses to take a bath in tap water."

At Security Pacific Bank, you can borrow on the money you have in your house.

Our simple interest Homeowners Loan Program means you can put the equity in your house to work.

The key word is equity. Quite simply, equity is the cash you've invested in your house plus its increase in market value since you bought it.

And in recent years, that's probably a lot. Why not use it? You may be able to borrow from $5,000 up, based on the equity in your house. And the loan will in no way affect the low interest rate you have on your first mortgage.

EQUAL HOUSING LENDER

You can take up to twelve years to pay it back, and if you should want to pay it back sooner, there is no penalty whatever. Just 12% annual percentage rate. Quite a bit lower than most installment loans, we might add. And our processing costs are low, too. Just $75. A glance at the chart will give you a pretty good idea of a program that will fit your income and your needs.

WHEEL FUN — Jeff Proulx, 4, gives a mighty push to a tricycle and wagon driven by Jason Santangelo, 3½ while Melinda Boss, 3, just enjoys the ride. The youngsters attend the Valley Preschool at 9185 Monte Vista Ave., Montclair. The parent participation school recently expanded to an afternoon session and is accepting applications for enrollment.

New sound system for Claremont is sought

Claremont's Fourth of July committee recently accepted a donation of $100 to upgrade the city's 1938 vintage sound system, but recreation official Ron Hagan estimates that it will cost about $700 more to update the system.

Hagan explained that the city bought the Army surplus sound system in 1938, and has nursed it along through the years until nothing more can be done.

The Claremont Junior Woman's Club has donated $100 to help defray the cost of new equipment.

Other community groups who wish to contribute to the purchase of a sound system should phone Hagan at 624-4531, ext. 270.

The equipment is used during the Fourth of July celebration, the Easter Egg Hunt, and various civic activities.

Preschool enrollment opens

Openings for immediate enrollment in the new afternoon session of Valley Preschool in Montclair are available for interested parents now.

The afternoon session is from 12:30 to 3 p.m. on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays at the school located at the Pomona Valley Unitarian Society, 9185 Monte Vista Ave., Montclair.

The school offers a parent participation program and accepts youngsters ranging in age from 2 years, 9 months to 5 years (pre-kindergarten) at a monthly rate of $18.

The afternoon session has been added to the already existing morning program. Applications are also being accepted at this time for the summer and fall programs.

Persons wishing additional information may call 626-8466 or 982-8216.

Upland karate team wins top honors

Members of the Upland Recreation Department karate team took four first-place awards and two second-place honors in an invitational tournament in Claremont.

The tournament was hosted by the United States Karate League.

First place winners were Roy Diaz, adult black belt sparring; Cindy Cummings, juniors red belt forms; Barry Spacher, pee wee red belt forms; and Jim Lopez, beginner sparring.

Richard Moncada took second place honors in junior yellow belt forms and junior yellow belt sparring.

John Santiago is the Upland Recreation Department karate coach.

United Way drive reaches 99 per cent

By VONNE ROBERTSON
PB Staff Writer

The East Zone of the Los Angeles County United Way Campaign for 1976-77 is closing out its fund drive at 99 per cent of its goal, according to John Felton, chairman.

The total this week is $296,709 with an additional $3,000 anticipated, making the campaign peak about $300,000, Felton said.

The East Zone, which covers Claremont, Pomona, La Verne and San Dimas, is part of Region II of the county campaign, which also has completed a highly successful campaign, with 16 per cent above the card value raised last year.

Rick London, regional campaign associate, credited the caliber of volunteer leadership in the zone with the success of the campaign.

The Los Angeles County United Way raised over $32 million, a record sum for the 52-year-old organization.

London said that while the complete total for the drive will not be known until necessary disbursements have been made to other Southern California United Ways, and to designations paid out to nonmember causes, the success of the campaign is assured.

He said that hard work by volunteer leadership plus an upswing in the general economy encouraged many people to increase their support.

The Ernest J. Loebbecke Award, named for the founding and honorary president of the United Way, was presented to Region II, led by William E. Leonard of Pasadena, and to Region IV, led by Harry H. Wetzel of Los Angeles, for their top performances.

Some 250 Los Angeles County agencies and 12 Red Cross chapters will receive allocations based on the campaign net, resulting from one of the largest United Way fund drives in the country.

Since 1924 as the Community Chest, United Way has raised over one-half billion dollars to underwrite health, welfare and recreational programs.

Completion of 20 years or more

Pomona employes honored

The Pomona City Council recently honored 29 city employes for the completion of 20 years or more of employment.

Many were presented service pins at a City Council meeting. Topping the list was Basil Lawson, an employe in the parks department, who was presented a service pin for 35 years of city employment.

Fire Capt. William Beck was presented a service pin for 29 years with the city and also was given a Pomona Goddess in honor of his retirement.

Receiving 25-year service pins were Donald Barker of the sanitation department; Lt. Joseph Cenoz, police department, Daniel Cuellar, sanitation department; Capt. Del Hope, fire department; Hartsell Maxwell, maintenance service; David Molles, water department; Detective Boyd Oliver, police department; Jesus Sandoval, water department; and Battalian Chief Donald Skews, fire department.

Employes receiving 20-year service pins were Sandra Blades, water department; Roberta Carrington, finance department; Ralene Scott, communications; June Wise, finance department; Capt. Allen Lloyd, fire department; Carlos Barela, sanitation department; Capt. Edwin Butler, fire department; Capt. Elmer Butler, fire department; John Calderon, sanitation department; Henry Carrasco, sanitation department; and Herman Clines, parks department.

Others receiving 20-year pins were Fireman Willis Clinton; Sgt. Charles Denbow, police department; Bennie Diaz, sanitation department; Moises Elias, sanitation department; Engineer Teddy Fleetwood, fire department; Capt. Robert Funk, fire department; and Melvin Gardner, water department.

Also receiving 20-year pins were Robert Haagenson, engineering department; Lester Harris, maintenance services; Capt. Marvin Karsten Sr., fire department; Harold Morris, water department; Harold Owens, parks department; Charles Sihler, water department; Harold Spitzer, purchasing; Sgt. Art Traber, police department; Fire Specialist Ruben Triana; and Lt. Chris Wiebelt, police department.

Builder award goes to Lewis

Owen H. Lewis of La Verne was presented the "Community Builder Award" at La Verne College's annual New Era Banquet.

A tradition since 1953, this award strives to honor someone who over a long period has been active in building the kind of community environment which is conducive to the growth and success of its own educational career.

Making the presentation on Friday was Mrs. Mary La Fetra, president of La Verne College board of trustees, who lauded Lewis as "a man of indefiatgable energies, tremendous insights, brilliant business wisdom and of contagious enthusiasm."

A resident of the La Verne and San Dimas area since 1940, Lewis was first a citrus grower. But after two years, he entered real estate and has continued in that vocation as a developer and investor.

Throughout his career in the valley, he has been active both as member and officer of the chamber of commerce, mayor of La Verne, Kiwanis and PTA. For the past 12 years, he has made a major contribution to the Los Angeles County Regional Planning Commission of which he is chairman.

Two years ago he was elected to the La Verne College board of trustees, and more recently to the Trustee Executive Committee. In addition, he was a member of the LVC President's Advisory Council for 10 years.

Internecine battle

In 1886 Robert Love Taylor, a Democrat, defeated his brother, Alfred Alexander Taylor, Republican, for the governorship of Tennessee in one of the most remarkable political contests ever conducted in any state. The campaign was called "The War of the Roses" because the candidates traveled over the state together.

Liberal tax break available for hiring welfare recipients receiving AFDC funds

The California's Employment Development Department reports new and more liberal tax breaks are available to persons who hire a welfare recipient receiving payments under the program of Aid to Families with Dependent Children (AFDC).

Officials said the recently-enacted Tax Reform Act extends through 1979 a little-used tax credit that allows any employer of such a welfare recipient to claim 20 per cent of the wages paid in the first 12 months of employment as a direct credit against federal income taxes.

The tax credit is a direct dollar deduction from the actual amount of federal tax liability (not just an expense claim to reduce gross income before taxes), and is available to anyone who employs a welfare recipient in this category, whether a private individual or a commercial business.

A private individual can claim up to $1,000 of tax savings in this way. For commercial firms, the tax credit allowance is in two steps: up to $50,000 is deductible on a dollar-for-dollar basis against federal taxes due. Amounts in excess of $50,000 are allowable at 50 cents on the tax dollar.

Persons interested in hiring a welfare recipient under this program should contact any field office of Employment Development Department, listed in telephone directory under State of California.

Elected to council

Robert W. Burwell, executive vice president of Pomona Valley Community Hospital, has been elected to the board of directors of the Hospital Council of Southern California.

He will serve as the San Gabriel Valley chairman. Council membership includes 245 hospitals representing more than 52,881 beds in a 42,000 square mile area.

Best speakers

Don Remer was judged best speaker at the Pomona Toastmasters Club 12 meeting.

Other speakers honored were Tom Bridges, most improved; Sherry Rutledge, spark plug winner; Dale Forrest, best table topic speaker; and Bill Ward, best evaluator.

Cub scout awards

Chris Warren and James Keele received three-year service pins at a recent meeting of Cub Scout Pack 210 in Chino.

Others receiving pins were Bernie Pereira and Stacey Baker, two years; and Stephen Pereira, Tim Gates, Adam Merrick, Cecil Johnson, Albert Ramirez, Trayton Taylor, D-Wayne Morris, Parish Thomason, Jim Rabidue, Eric Berger, Chris Hensley, Jeff Hinojos, Erick Ottoson, Brett Ottoson, and Mike Lee.

Special recognition was given to Lyle and Carole Miettinen for seven years of service and Gilbert Toledo, former pack master, for five years of service. Adam Merrick received his wolf badge.

Students are collecting blood money for science

It's a job for 2,000 donors

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — The 32 young people lying in recliner chairs study or sleep, oblivious to the rock music blaring from a portable radio — and to the tubes sprouting from their arms and the blood trickling into plastic bags.

For many of them, this is their only job.

"It's not really like selling blood," one student says. "It's more like renting it."

The scene is the Bio-Resources Inc., laboratory and offices near the University of Wisconsin campus and the people in the chairs — most of them students — are among thousands who give blood for money each week.

Actually, office director Jean Pecotte explained, the donors are only giving part of their blood, the plasma.

After extraction, the blood is put into a centrifuge which spins around to separate the plasma from the whole blood, she said.

Then, while the plasma is flash-frozen and packaged for shipment to pharmaceutical firms, the blood is returned to the donor's arm. A saline solution is also injected into the donor's veins to make up the volume of the lost plasma.

"They leave with what they came in with," Mrs. Pecotte said.

She said Bio-Resources purposely picked the campus area to set up its operation three years ago in an effort to get away from the image of professional blood-donor operations catering to derelicts.

We didn't want that kind of population," she said. "Ours is a clean population, a thinking donor population."

She said prospective donors answering the daily ads in campus newspapers are screened carefully and given a physical exam each time they come in to donate.

Mrs. Pecotte stressed the "getting involved" aspects of being a donor, but admitted that most give for the money.

She said Bio-Resources, which is regulated by the federal Food and Drug Administration, pays donors $5 for the first visit each week. Those who weigh more than 175 pounds can give more blood and are paid $6.

The second visit each week earns the donor $7 regardless of weight.

She said there are more than 2,000 permanent donors who usually give twice a week and earn $12 or $13. Some have given more than 300 times.

'RENTING' BLOOD — A group of young people recline at the Bio-Resources Inc. clinic near the University of Wisconsin campus. Company officials say many students get paid $13 a week for giving blood twice a week.

Tiddlywinking is greatest, says champ

FRESNO, Calif. (AP) — Tim Schiller thinks winking is the greatest — tiddlywinking, that is.

Schiller, 26, veteran of three U.S. championship teams and one world champion squad, says that of all the games he's tried, "none combines the elements of skill, luck and strategy as well as tiddlywinks."

He began playing about nine years ago at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, where he earned a civil engineering degree. On a recent weekend he and friends spent 14 hours "winking" in preparation for the U.S. championships, or "continentals" as winkers call them, scheduled Feb. 19-20 at Cornell University in Ithaca, N.Y.

Schiller believes "most people attracted to the game seem to be oriented toward math."

The game they play was developed in England in 1955. It uses a six-by three-foot felt mat that covers a table.

Threatened with a shortage of pots into which to flip their winks (the man who made them after 1955 has died), a group of winkers is trying to purchase the original pot's mold and carry on.

AUTOMOBILE STRETCHERS — Workers in the foreground finish the exteriors of automobiles that were made longer at the Moloney Coach Builders plant in Rolling Meadows, northwest of Chicago.

Automobile stretching big business

ROLLING MEADOWS, Ill. (AP) — Detroit is shrinking its luxury cars, but Moloney Coachbuilders is stretching them out again.

"Since the downsizing trend started with the 1977 production models our business has doubled," says Matt Baines, sales manager of Coachbuilders, whose clientele includes sultans of oil-rich countries and other well-heeled auto fanciers. Twenty per cent of the cars are sent overseas.

Baines says the company will turn out 400 exotically-appointed autos this year.

The cost of the cars and conversions ranges from $20,000 to $50,000. The cars are cut in half and extended with sheet metal fabricated inside the plant. Elongated drive shafts come from a factory.

The production line has just completed an order from a wealthy Arab — a dazzling white Cadillac extended 40 inches. The limousine is nearly 23 feet long. The most popular stretch job is seven inches.

Those who order the cars do it through regular dealerships. The autos go directly to Coachbuilders from the factory. When the conversions are completed in about a month, the cars are returned to the dealerships for the customer to pick up.

Baines said another Coachbuilders plant turns out about 20 armored cars a year, most of them limousines. Bulletproofing a car runs from $100,000 to $300,000.

A lot of room — and not just for the legs — is needed for what Coachbuilders can put into cars: the finest of leather, fur and materials; color TV sets, bars, intercoms, telephones tucked away in armrests, personalized air conditioning for both the front and back, stereo and tape decks, ice storage compartments and CBs.

"Whatever a customer wants he gets," said Baines. "One wanted a safe, another a toilet, another a back seat that swiveled outside the car and brought him inside (he was arthritic) and another a cushioned bed for her dog. We have the type of customers whose only demand is quality. The price is the last thing to come up."

Uganda

Switzerland of Africa

By The Associated Press

An inland nation of mountains and lakes, Uganda in east-central Africa sometimes is called the Switzerland or the pearl of Africa. It is the home of the hippopotamus and some of the largest elephant herds on the continent.

Independent from Britain since Oct. 9, 1962, the nation of 11.6 million people now is under the one-man rule of Field Marshal Idi Amin Dada, president for life, who seized power in a military coup on Jan. 25, 1971.

"All men are both good and bad and presidents are also men," Idi Amin once said. "We must respect our presidents, even if they become so bad we have to remove them. We made them presidents, if they were bad we have ourselves to blame."

Last week Amin claimed that Milton Obote, the Ugandan leader that he overthrew in 1971, had attempted from exile in Tanzania to oust him in a coup. Amin charged that the uprising was to begin with the assassination of prominent Ugandans to cause confusion. Following this, he charged, paratroopers of the United States, Britain or Israel were to fly into Uganda and seize several towns.

Amin has been accused by exiles and others of conducting a reign of terror since becoming the sole ruler of Uganda, a nation about the size of Oregon. He has been accused over the years of ordering the slaughter of 50,000 to 300,000 persons. Obote claims the figure is 90,000. These claims can not be independently substantiated, chiefly because of Uganda's strict control on information. The figures have been put together by outside sources from refugee accounts or from unofficial sources inside Uganda.

In 1972, Amin ordered the expulsion of 40,000 Asians who lived and worked in Uganda with British passports. His move was to bring Uganda's ailing economy under national control.

Uganda's relations with Britain have been cold ever since. The U.S. Embassy in Kampala, the capital on the north shore of Lake Victoria was closed in November 1973 following a dispute over its Marine guards.

Amin, born of peasant parents in northwest Uganda, has made headlines around the world over the years because of his actions or comments. Among them:

—An off-the-cuff remark that Adolf Hitler was "right to burn six million Jews."

—The dismissal of Princess Elizabeth Bagaya, a former actress and model, as foreign minister, charging that she had sexual relations with a white man in the restroom of a Paris airport on her way home from a United Nations session. She and French officials denied that charge.

—His arrest of retired British schoolteacher Denis Hills and Hills subsequent death sentence for writing in an unpublished manuscript on Uganda in 1975 that Amin was a village tyrant. After intervention by the governments of Britain and neighboring Zaire, Amin let Hill go.

—His permission given last summer for the hijackers of an Air France jetliner to land in Uganda's Entebbe Airport with their Israeli and other hostages. On July 4, Israeli commandos rescued the hostages in an operation that enraged Amin.

Last week Amin surged back into the news once again, charging that an Ugandan Anglican archbishop and two government officials were involved in a plot against him. Shortly after the charges were made, the Amin government announced the three men were killed in an automobile crash. Other reports said they were shot to death — with one Tanzanian newspaper claiming it was Amin himself who killed the archbishop.

Uganda's history under Amin has been studded with such crises, some of them, according to observers and other sources in the country, of Amin's own making.

Amin rose to power after a career in the British colonial army where he became a boxing champion.

Uganda became a British protectorate in 1894-96, continuing in that status until a movement for nationhood after World War II led to independence. Its first president was Sir Edward Frederick Mutesa, elected to office on Oct. 9, 1963, exactly a year after independence. Mutesa was overthrown by Obote, then the prime minister, on Feb. 22, 1966, and the latter was elected president for a five-year term by the National Assembly the following April.

Obote established a one-party state with a socialistic program called the "Common Man's Charter," under which he nationalized the export trade and acquired 60 per cent interest for the government in banks and other enterprises.

Obote was out of the country on Jan. 25, 1971 when Amin took power, and has remained ever since in exile.

Group seeks to change image of soldier executed for desertion

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A small but diligent group is attempting to change what it says is the public image of Pvt. Eddie Slovik — an ex-con who turned tail on his buddies, fled batle and was executed — in order to restore veterans benefits to his widow.

Slovik, the only American soldier shot for desertion since the Civil War, confessed to twice fleeing combat. He died Jan. 31, 1945, before a firing squad in a French village.

His widow, Antoinete, 62, lives on welfare under an assumed name in a Detroit nursing home. She is seeking $68,000, plus interest, on Slovik's military life insurance policy.

Although supporters have approached members of Congress to sponsor legislation in her behalf, they admit it would be politically difficult to back the widow of a man with such a public image.

So efforts now are focused on changing that image, portraying Slovik as an unknowing conscientious objector, unable to kill but stoically accepting his own death.

Four Georgetown University pre-law students have volunteered to track down those still living who witnessed Slovik's execution, said retired U.S. Navy Cmdr. Stanley Doyka. He said they will be asked to testify as character witnesses in Slovik's behalf if backers get the Congressional informal subcommittee hearing they seek.

One of those is Orrin Fluck, 60, now a carpenter in Coopersburg, Pa. He led Slovik to the post where he was shot.

"He seemed to be resigned to the fact that he was going to die. He walked out real calm. The only thing he said, he asked for a drink of water," Fluck recalled.

"I stood at his right when he was executed. It seemed like quite a while before he died. I heard the doctor say that only one bullet nicked the heart."

Slovik's demeanor was similarly portrayed by the late Maj. William Fellman.

"The condemned man appeared calm and resigned," Fellman wrote in his report of the execution. Fellman was shot and killed several years ago during a holdup at his business here.

Doyka, handling the effort in Washington, hopes Fluck's testimony and statements like Fellman's will cast Slovik in a new light.

"He accepted his death calmly and courageously, not like a deserter," Doyka said in an interview. "He was not a coward."

Doyka says overcoming the negative image may be the biggest obstacle because, he says, some see Slovik as an ex-con who got what he deserved for deserting.

Before entering the Army, Slovik had been arrested and jailed several times in his native Detroit for petty crimes. In refusing to commute his death sentence, the Army cited his arrest record.

Use of the civilian criminal record is one of several legal errors supporters claim the military made in killing Slovik and stripping his survivors of benefits.

The legal arguments are now before the Army Board for Correction of Military Records, and board chairman Raymond Williams says he has been trying to expedite a hearing.

Bernard Edelson, a Philadelphia lawyer representing Slovik's widow, said he has asked the board to move quickly due to her age and poor health.

His legal briefs accuse the Army of legal errors in Slovik's court martial and also claim the court never intended to strip Slovik's survivors of military benefits.

Exhibits prepared by Doyka include an order signed in 1945 by then-Gen. Dwight Eisenhower which said Slovik's pay and allowances were not to be revoked.

The package also includes a copy of Slovik's handwritten plea for clemency to Eisenhower, in which Slovik says he was afraid of combat and deserted only after his numerous transfer requests were denied.

At that time, Slovik was one of 48 soldiers sentenced to death for desertion. He was the only one killed.

New solon doesn't like what he found

WASHINGTON (AP) — Edward Zorinsky went to Washington as a member of the United States Senate in January, but he doesn't like what he finds. He says he almost quit after a few weeks but that his wife talked him out of it.

"Obviously, the whole systems seems geared to re-election," says Zorinsky, a Republican-turned-Democrat from Nebraska.

In an interview with Washington Star reporter Walter Taylor, Zorinsky complained about the Senate's voting procdures, "self-serving statements" by other senators, the failure to eliminate scheduling conflicts and what he says have been efforts to persuade him to trade votes.

His displeasure extends to Washington as a city. He described his search for a moderately priced home and said in Omaha, they condemn houses that cost $100,000 in Washington.

"Everybody here is at the public trough," he told Taylor. "That's the reason for the higher land values, that plus the fact that you can't build a building taller than the Capitol and the fact that the losers stay here and the winners bring more people with them, and this has compounded itself."

The 48-year-old Zorinsky, a former mayor of Omaha, won the seat previously occupied by Republican Roman L. Hruska, who retired. Zorinsky registered Democratic after the GOP refused to back him in last year's primary and is the first Democrat elected to the Senate from Nebraska in 42 years.

Zorinsky described a closed-door caucus of Senate Democrats earlier this year where the topic was whether to end free haircuts in the Senate barbershop.

"I know a den mother of a Cub Scout pack that could have resolved the barber shop issue in five minutes," he said.

"They were going to decide, first, whether to charge or not charge. They decided we were criticized for not charging; so they charged $3. Well, then somebody brought up the fact that the House barber shop is less than $3, so everybody's staff would be spending extra time going over to the House to get their haircuts...

"You talk about a federal project," he added. "They could have built a dam in less time, and it's still not resolved."

"After about six weeks back here," Zorsinsky said, "I told my wife one night that in the light of the fact that life is short, I felt I could be more productive in other areas than to sit and be part of a grinding process."

His wife dissuaded him.

Damien's CIF hopes end

SURROUNDED

Damien High's Mario Martinez (14) must feel all alone as four Santa Barbara players surround him in Tuesday's CIF 4A soccer semifinal match won by the visitors, 2-1.

By JIM McCONNELL
PB Staff Writer

The valley soccer fans received quite a feather in their caps recently when the CIF decided to hold its 4A and 3A championship tilts at Mt. San Antonio College in Walnut.

Unfortunately, however, there won't be a local prep team involved in that competition.

CIF SOCCER RESULTS
Tuesday's games
4A Semifinals
Santa Barbara 2, Damien 1
Palos Verdes 1, Arcadia 0
3A Semifinals
Montebello 3, Chaffey 2
Riverside Poly 2, Palm Springs 0
Friday's games
3A Finals
Riverside Poly vs. Montebello at MSAC, 6 p.m.
4A Finals
Palos Verdes vs. Santa Barbara at MSAC, 8 p.m.

That result, combined with Chaffey's 3-2 loss to Montebello in the 3A semifinals, means that Friday night's CIF finals at MSAC will have to go on sans a local squad.

Santa Barbara, the two-time defending champs, will be meeting Palos Verdes in Friday's 4A final. Palos Verdes knocked off top-seeded Arcadia 1-0 Tuesday.

The Dons, now 24-1-2 on the year, turned in a sharp performance Tuesday in their semifinal match with Damien, despite the long drive the squad had to make from Santa Barbara.

"Yes, they are a very poised and well-coached team," noted a disappointed Damien coach Al Mistri after the loss. "They took advantage of their two top scoring chances, and really did a good job of protecting their lead late in the game.

"It's no disgrace for us to lose to them," Mistri continued. "We went down fighting."

The Spartans, who finished the season with an impressive 20-5-2 ledger, spotted the visitors from the Marmonte League a 1-0 lead five minutes into the game on a goal by Gus Guzman.

The game stayed that way until midway through the second half.

Damien, which had not been able to mount many scoring drives due to the alert Don defense, finally got a break when, on a Brian Potter throw-in, a Santa Barbara defender touched the ball with his hand inside the penalty box area.

That gave Damien a penalty kick attempt, and Pete Fox tied the game up as he skidded his boot past Don goalie Chris Williams.

Unfortunately for the Spartans, Guzman, the Dons' top scorer, struck again approximately a minute later. Guzman booted in the winning tally after Damien goalie Billy Saelzler had knocked down another Don attempt.

Guzman's first score of the game came on a direct kick which rocketed past a wall of Damien defenders and goalie Saelzler.

Damien had a slight edge in shots on goal for the game, with 15 attempts to 12 for Santa Barbara, but the Spartans were prevented from attempting more than a couple Potter throw-ins near the S.B. net, and also had only two corner kicks on the contest.

Santa Barbara	1	1—2
Damien	0	1—1

GOALS: Santa Barbara — Guzman 2; Damien — Pete Fox.

Jumping on bandwagon

How does one go about writing a soccer column?

Obviously, one would think the right approach would be asking our local experts, Willie Keo or Adrian Mercado.

But we don't want to get into all the technical stuff Willie and Adrian discuss each week in Kickin' Around.

For years, soccer has seemed like a foreign game to be largely ignored to this writer, even though it was the first sport I ever covered way back in my freshman year in college for the campus newspaper.

But it's getting more obvious that soccer is just about to make it big in the United States and it's time to join the bandwagon.

If you don't believe soccer can someday have as big a following as football, baseball or basketball, a summer trip up the Pacific Coast will indicate otherwise.

In places like Seattle, Portland and San Jose, pro soccer is big stuff with plenty of attention from the media and good crowds.

However, soccer hasn't done as well in the Los Angeles market mainly because of too much competition for the sports dollar and media attention.

And the Aztecs, L.A.'s pro team, must take a major part of the blame. They haven't promoted the sport well in recent years and played their home games at unattractive stadiums.

But things are different in 1977.

Free parking

The Aztecs are now playing their home games at the Los Angeles Coliseum and are offering free parking and a policy of admitting kids for free with a paid adult admission.

You can t beat that deal.

For the first time, the Aztecs will also have a good TV package with KHJ (Channel 9) carrying nine away games.

Our Pomona Valley area has always been a hotbed for soccer and this is reflected by the CIF staging the high school championship games at Mt. San Antonio College Friday night.

The biggest reason for the growing interest in soccer is the youth movement. As the kids are graduating from the youth programs, they are fans.

Claremont's David Goldstein is a good example of how soccer has risen.

Studying offers

Right now, the Claremont-Mudd student is studying pro offers from the Aztecs and the new California Sunshine (Santa Ana) of the rival American Soccer League.

As a junior at Claremont High, Goldstein went out for the school's first soccer team in 1969 knowing nothing about the sport.

"I was 5-foot-2 and weighed 110 pounds as a sophomore and didn't seem to fit a spot on any team," Goldstein recalled. "I did play junior varsity baseball for a couple of weeks as a sophomore.

"When I heard a soccer team was being started, I thought I would try it. I was always able to kick a ball well so it seemed logical. We had no experience on the team at all except one exchange student."

Now, all eight San Antonio League schools have soccer teams.

Goldstein has a good idea how high school soccer has progressed since he coached Pomona High's team this past season to a 0-12-2 SAL mark.

"There's a bell of a lot of difference," Goldstein said about his first season as a player and his experiences this year. "Today's players know a lot more about soccer because of the youth programs and more general interest."

Coaching since 17

Being a high school coach isn't too surprising since the Claremonter has been coaching youth soccer since he was 17.

"I went to classes in the morning, coached in the afternoons and studied at night," he said about his daily routine.

Now, he has the opportunity of being paid for playing his favorite sport.

"I haven't signed with either team yet as I figure the next move is up to them," he said. "Professional soccer has always been a possibility for me and I would like to get the experience. But I don't want to root myself to one profession. In general, I feel athletes are overpaid anyway. I don't know why an athlete should be paid more than people who save lives."

Was his Pomona High team excited about Goldstein being drafted by the Aztecs and Sunshine?

"Yes, they were quite excited but it didn't improve their play any," he laughed.

Jones' arm passes big test

By the Associated Press

Randy Jones is back and now it is the hitters who can start worrying about the National League's 1976 Cy Young Award winner.

"I can't tell you how happy I am. Now I know I don't have to worry about my arm," Jones said Tuesday after pitching three innings in the San Diego Padres' 7-6 exhibition baseball victory over the California Angels.

It was Jones' first game since undergoing arm surgery to repair nerve damage to his valuable left arm last October after compiling a 22-14 record and 2.74 earned run average for the fifth-place Padres.

The game also was the first of the spring between major league clubs and the anxious Padres did not waste any time finding out about their star hurler. Jones allowed two runs—both in the third inning— and four hits and bailed himself out of two james with double play balls.

"I felt just like a kid out of college," Jones confessed. "I was nervous and my knees were shaking so much that I needed knee pads. But I felt good. Now I know I can get on with spring training the way I normally would."

Since Jones threw only 19 pitches in his first two innings, he went an additional inning. In that one, California's Mike Easler and Jerry Remy hammered extra-base hits over the head of centerfielder George Hendrick and Dave Chalk singled home the second run.

"I felt like I could have gone two more innings, but no more than that," Jones said. "I still have to rebuild my stamina, but I'm farther along than I expected to be this early in the spring. I didn't try to throw any curves, but I threw eight or nine sliders and the rest sinkers and fast balls.

"I have a lot of work to do to get my control where I want it, but I'm very encouraged about things. Sunday I threw for 45 minutes and I was terrible—every pitch I threw was straight; my release point was off. Today it was right much of the time.

"I made bad pitches to the two left-handed hitters (Easler and Remy), but to get the ball low and outside to either one of them would have meant turning the ball over and extending my arm farther than I felt like I should this early."

Another sore-armed pitcher, Atlanta's Buzz Capra, worked two scoreless innings in a Braves' intrasquad game and showed no ill effects from the shoulder ailment that sidelined him most of the 1975 and 1976 seasons.

In the contract department, veteran pitcher Luis Tiant and the Boston Red Sox appeared to be nearing agreement, but little progress was reported in negotiations between the world champion Cincinnati Reds and third baseman Pete Rose.

Rose again said he would not back down from his demands.

Bruins can't afford any more off games

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Gene Bartow's Bruins have been an up-and-down basketball team this season, but now, as the UCLA coach stresses, one "off" game and the season's over.

"I know there is no room for margin of error for us now," said Bartow, whose team meets Louisville Saturday in the opening round of the NCAA playoffs in Pocatello, Idaho.

"We have five games left if we continue to win. Earlier in the year we had a nine-game wining streak, and a couple of weeks ago we said we needed an eight-game one."

The Bruins did not get that eight-game streak, but they did finish regular season play by winning three straight, and got their 11th consecutive Pacific-8 title when Oregon lost to Oregon State.

Second-ranked UCLA brings a 23-4 record into the playoffs against Crum's 21-6 Cardinals, and 14th-ranked Louisville has lost three of its last five outings.

Bartow said he planned no major changes for the Bruins in Saturday's contest.

"We're polishing up the offensive series we feel have been good to us," he remarked, "and we will continue to mix our defenses."

The Bruins coach said he intended to use David Greenwood against Louisville's Ricky Gallon, Marques Johnson on Wesley Cox and Gig Sims on Larry Williams, and added that he had a great deal of respect for the Cardinals.

"They know how the game is supposed to be played. They come at you. They throw the long pass and they like to run. Defensively, they basically are a man-to-man team, but they have used the zone off and on and use it well, too."

Kings turn on power

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Los Angeles Kings lead the National Hockey League on power play goals, so when Tommy Williams got two of them against Chicago it wasn't exactly a surprise, but Williams was overwhelmed.

"It really feels great to have a 30-goal season," said Williams, who achieved that plateau for the first time as he led the Kings past Chicago 7-1 Tuesday night in a National Hockey league game.

Williams blasted home his 30th and 31st goals in the second period — both on power plays — and Los Angeles converted two other power play goals to maintain their NHL lead in that department, a fact of which Williams was aware.

"We have a 27 per cent record on power plays and that's tops in the NHL," said the 25-year-old left-winger. "Any time you lead the NHL in anything you gotta be proud of it.

"And power play situations could be factor in the playoffs."

By winning, the Kings remained just two points back of Pittsburgh in the Norris Division of the NHL.

Marcel Dionne and Butch Goring each added three assists in the rout of the Black Hawks, who were outshot by Los Angeles 47-20. It was the first Kings' triumph over Chicago in three meetings this season.

The setack was the fifth straight for the injury-riddled, slumping Hawks, who now have lost nine in a row on the road.

Los Angeles scored three goals in each of the first two periods against goalie Tony Esposisto, and Chicago was on defense most of those stanzas as the Kings outshot the Hawks 22-7 in the first period and 15-3 in the second period.

Gilles Villemure replaced Esposito in the Hawk nets to start the third period, but at 8:24 he suffered a finger injury and Esposito returned to surrender the Kings' final goal.

Chicago's only score came with 10:46 left when Darcy Rota blasted a power play goal past Los Angeles goalie Rogie Vachon from 10 feet.

Last season, Williams had 24 goals for a career high in a season. This year he has 14 power play goals to tie a club record held by Butch Goring and Mike Corrigan.

It was Los Angeles' eighth victory in its last 12 games, and two have been ties.

Prep spikers open league season

By MIKE BROSSART
PB Staff Writer

The San Antonio League, which was probably the strongest track league in the CIF's Southern Section last year, will launch its 1977 dual meet campaign Thursday afternoon at four sites.

And at one of those sites — Pomona High — will be the two league favorites this time around. Defending SAL and CIF 3A champion Pomona figures to win the league dual meet title again this year, but if anyone can stop the Red Devils it is probably the Upland Highlanders, who will invade Pomona's track Thursday at 3:15 p.m.

Other SAL meets Thursday will find Chino at Claremont, Garey at Montclair and Damien at Ganesha, all at 3:15 p.m.

The Hacienda League dual season will also begin Thursday with Bonita at Alta Loma, Gladstone at defending champ and league favorite Walnut, Royal Oak at San Dimas and Sierra Vista at Ontario.

The SAL placed four teams — Pomona, Ganesha, Upland and Garey — in the top 10 at the CIF 3A finals last year, and the 3A division was generally conceded to be stronger than either the 4A or 2A in 1976.

In addition to those varsity showings, Garey placed second and Upland fourth in the frosh-soph division, indicating that both schools have a number of fine young athletes.

In fact, Upland coach Bob Loney will be counting heavily on his returnees from last year's frosh-soph squad in the Scots' bid to unseat the champions Thursday at Pomona.

Pole vaulters Doug Lewen and Bob Gonzales, high jumper Kent Byer, sprinter Matt Bangert, shot putter John Noss and two miler Keith Van Lieu all made it to the 3A frosh-soph finals last year. Lewen has already cleared 13 feet for the Scots this season and Byer has made 6-2.

As usual, Upland is very strong in the vault and the high jump and the distances, where the Highlanders boast SAL cross country champ Roger Innes as well as brothers Mark and Mike Trilevsky.

The Red Devils rate the edge in the sprints, led by Karsem James and William Warren, the relays and the shot put, with Ricky Fairman (56-11) and Anthony Miley. Miley also owns the valley's best 440 time, 50.1 seconds.

Montebello tops Tigers

Chaffey High's quest for the CIF 3A soccer title was ended Tuesday night, as visiting Montebello High edged the Tigers 3-2 in the 3A semifinals.

Montebello, the top-seeded team in the 3A Division, will play Riverside Poly on Friday at 6 p.m. at Mt. San Antonio College for the 3A title. Poly surprised Palm Springs 2-0 on Tuesday.

Chaffey led Montebello 1-0 at the half on a score by Frank Fernandez, his first of two on the night.

Fernandez made it 2-0 early in the second half, but Montebello's Wally Omsikian made it 2-1 shortly thereafter.

A goal by Ralph Petrosian for the visitors tied the game at 2-2, and Petrosian scored again with 15 minutes left in the game to win it for the visitors.

Montebello will take a 20-3-1 season record into Friday night's final. Chaffey, the Ivy League runnerup this year, finishes a highly-successful season at 22-5-1.

Montebello	0	3—3
Chaffey	1	1—2

GOALS: Chaffey — Fernandez 2; Montebello — Petrosian 2, Omsikian.
ASSISTS: Chaffey — McEachron; Montebello — Omsikian.

Ballard gets A-A honor

Oregon's Greg Ballard, a senior from Pomona's Garey High School, was named to the 10-man Pizza Hut All-America team selected by the United States Basketball Writers Association.

Ballard was joined on the squad by UCLA's Marques Johnson, North Carolina's Phil Ford, Michigan's Rickey Green, Tennessee's Ernie Grunfeld, Wake Forest's Rod Griffin, Minnesota's Mike Thompson, Houston's Otis Birdsong, Tennessee's Bernard King and Michigan's Phil Hubbard.

The USBWA selected Eddie Sutton of Southwest Conference champion Arkansas as the national coach of the year.

Johnson tops Pac-8 team

WALNUT CREEK, Calif. (AP) — Pacific-8 coaches have chosen Marques Johnson of UCLA as the conference player of the year, and Dick Harter of Oregon as coach of the year, executive director Wiles Hallock said today.

Johnson, who led the Bruins to their 11th consecutive Pac-8 championship and averaged 21.6 points a game to top the league in scoring, was an unanimous selection.

Harter, whose Oregon team was runner-up to the Bruins whom they beat twice, rebuilt a team that had lost its superstar Ron Lee by graduation and two starters through summer injuries — center Dan Hartshorne and forward Stu Jackson.

Harter's Ducks were 18-9 this season and earned a berth in post-season play for the third year in a row. Five of Oregon's losses were in overtime.

Johnson, the national college basketball player of the year, almost missed this season's play. He withdrew his name from the National Basketball Association's hardship draft at the last minute. In addition to leading the Pac-8 in scoring he was the rebound leader with an average of 11 a game and was tops in field goal accuracy with 59.7 per cent.

Greg Ballard of Oregon and Johnson were the only unanimous selections to the all-conference team named Tuesday. Ballard averaged 20.7 points and 9.6 rebounds a game and ran his career total to 1,758 points, highest for a forward in Pac-8 history.

Ganesha girls post SAL win

The San Antonio League girls basketball campaign opened Tuesday afternoon for two of the loop's eight entries.

In that contest, Ganesha bounced Pomona Catholic, 54-20. Ganesha, now 7-1 on the year, was paced by Carla Taylor with 20 points and Darlene Adams with 11.

All eight SAL girls' squads will be in action Thursday afternoon. Preseason favorite Upland will open at home vs. Montclair, Claremont will be at Garey, Pomona at Pomona Catholic and Ganesha at Chino.

All those games are slated to start at 3:15 p.m.

Raiders, Vikings visit L.A.

The Oakland Raiders and the Minnesota Vikings, who began the year battling each other in the Super Bowl at Pasadena, will both return to the Southland to take on the Rams this summer, according to a Rams' preseason schedule released today.

The Vikings, who beat the Rams, 24-13, in the NFC Championship last December at Bloomington, will open up the Coliseum pre-season with the annual charity game on Saturday night, Aug. 6.

And the Raiders, 32-14 Super Bowl victors over the Vikings, will provide the summer's final opposition for the Rams at the Coliseum on Friday night, Sept. 9.

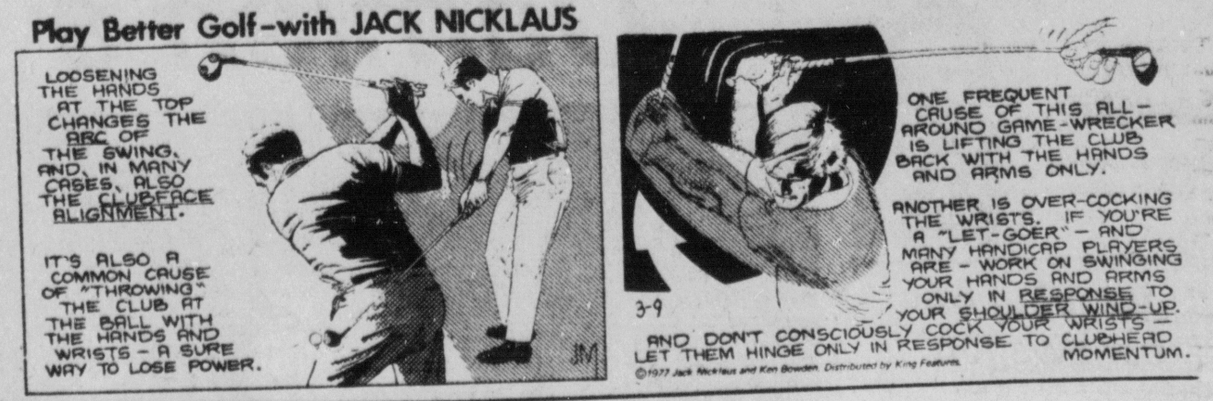

In between the Rams have two other Coliseum games scheduled — Saturday night, Aug. 13, against the Philadelphia Eagles and Thursday night, Sept. 1, against the San Diego Chargers.

Two road games are also on the '77 pre-season schedule, beginning with Sunday, Aug. 21, when the Rams travel to San Francisco for an afternoon game. They will then go to Kansas City the following week for a Saturday night, Aug. 27 game with the Chiefs.

The two Saturday night games against the Vikings and Eagles will begin at 7 p.m. while the contests with the Chargers and Raiders will start one-half hour later at 7:30 p.m.

Sat., Aug. 6 — Minnesota Vikings, Coliseum, 7 p.m.
Sat., Aug. 13 — Philadelphia Eagles, Coliseum, 7 p.m.
Sun., Aug. 21 — at San Francisco 49ers, 1 p.m.
Sat., Aug. 27 — at Kansas City Chiefs, 7:30 p.m. (CDT)
Thurs., Sept. 1 — San Diego Chargers, Coliseum, 7:30 p.m.
Fri., Sept. 9 — Oakland Raiders, Coliseum, 7:30 p.m.

For dual track meets

SAL boys, girls together

Pomona hurdlers Paul Sampson (15.3 and 39.8) and Walter Owens (15.2) will vie with Upland's Wayne Cramer (15.4).

One of the most interesting matchups in the Pomona-Upland meet should be the half-mile duel between the Highlanders' Mike Harden (2:01.9) and the Devils' Curtis Ross (2:02.0).

An event which is new to SAL meets this year — the triple jump — will pit Pomona's Lewis Cole (41-9½) against Upland's Rich Stout (41-2½).

Another big change in the SAL dual meet format this season is the combining of girls' and boys' meets. Boys' junior varsity competition has been dropped from the dual meet schedule, so that boys will compete on the varsity and frosh-soph levels while girls will field varsity and junior varsity teams.

Claremont is led by junior Derek Britton, who runs both sprints (10.1 and 22.8) and puts the shot (52-7½). Other top Wolfpack athletes include quarter-miler Al Cantini (52.9), half-miler Dennis McCutcheon and sophomore distance runners Locke Breaux (4:36.0 and 9:59.0) and George Waters (4:36.0). SAL high jump champ Kelly Gordien is currently ineligible.

Sprinter Steve Gomez and miler Paul Perez lead Chino.

Garey's team has been hurt by the departure of last year's freshman sprint sensation Morris Cole (9.5, 21.6 and 49.6), who transferred to Las Vegas last summer.

But the Vikings still have some top athletes, including jumper Ralph Dixon, sprinter James Moore, distance men Jim Orr and Jose Ramirez and high jumper-hurdlers Robert Nowden and Kenneth Ottrix. Anthony Blythe, a transfer from San Diego's Lincoln High, is a 14.8 high hurdler.

Tony Valverde, an outstanding junior, leads Montclair's track squad. Valverde won the 3A frosh-soph title in the low hurdles (39.3) last year and is a fine quarter-and half-miler. The Cavaliers' Mike Gray is a 22-foot long jumper.

Ganesha is led by senior Floyd Eddings, a 9.6 sprinter as well as a fine long and triple jumper. Quarter-miler David Carr is another top Giant.

Shot putter Rick Dutcher (54-1¾) and sprinter John Davis (10.0) pace Damien.

Walnut, which won its first HL title last year, appears a cinch to repeat. The Mustangs are extremely strong in just about every event.

Sprinter Kevin Morgan, quarter-miler Phil Flores, middle-distance runner Tim Ball, distance man David Mendoza, long jumper Derrick Williams and shot putter Brian Jackson (school record holder at 54-8) are all consistent scorers for the Mustangs.

Other top HL performers include Alta Loma distance runner Joel Hope, one of the valley's premier athletes, Ontario sprinter Tommy Jefferson, San Dimas' Perry LaMont (distances) and Fred Carter (sprints) and Bonita sprinter Sanford Coggins.

Prep hurlers sharp

Tuesday was the final tuneup session of the spring for most prep baseball squads prior to the start of San Antonio and Hacienda league action, and several local hurlers appeared to be in mid-season form.

Upland's Brad Self, Garey's Cregg Handy, Ganesha's Mark Van Camp, Montclair's Jeff Kizziar, and Damien's Mark Schlesinger all looked sharp in route-going efforts.

Self fired a five-hitter and helped his own cause with two RBIs as the Highlanders bested Alta Loma 4-3. The winning tally was scored in the last of the sixth, as Ed Kaufer stole home. Upland is now 2-5 on the year.

Damien's Schlesinger had a big day vs. Canyon in a 7-3 win. On the hill the Spartan senior fashioned a four-hitter, fanning seven. At the plate he collected a single, double and triple and drove in three runs. Jim Torrance also cracked a home run for the Spartans, who are now 4-1 for the season.

Montclair's Kizziar scattered eight hits as the Cavs bested host Bonita 8-4. Montclair is now 4-2, while Bonita is 0-6.

Rick Adams led Montclair with three hits and two RBI's, while Ralph Ortega had three hits for Bonita.

Handy pitched a four-hitter vs. Paramount, but lost 2-1 in eight innings on two unearned runs. Handy fanned seven and did not walk a man.

For Garey, now 2-2 on the year, Jim Stedronsky tripled in the lone Viking score.

Ganesha's Van Camp limited powerful Fontana to only five hits, but his mates got only three themselves and lost 3-1. Joe Madrigal singled in the only Giant tally in the first. Ganesha is now 2-2 for the year.

In other prep action, Claremont bested Gladstone 6-2, Walnut whipped Workman 12-4, Northview downed San Dimas 10-4, Capistrano Christian beat Calvary Baptist 10-5 and Big Bear bested Lutheran La Verne 7-6.

Claremont hurlers James Hood and Kenny Haerr limited Gladstone to only three hits and fanned 10 men between them. Jack Dunaway and Dick Bell had two hits apiece for the 'Pack. Claremont is now 3-3 for the season.

Walnut blasted Workman for four runs in the first inning and cruised to the win, upping its record to 2-4.

Tony Rossi had three hits for the Mustangs while Ed Kimura added two hits and two RBIs.

Cavs' Adams wins top SAL honors

Montclair High's Rick Adams has been selected as the Most Valuable Player in the San Antonio League, by vote of that loop's soccer coaches.

The Cavalier senior was the leading scorer in the league this past season. He was an all-SAL selection last year as well.

Claremont placed three men on the SAL first team, most of any squad. The Wolfpack had sophomore goalie Steve Tipping selected, as well as Jerry Van Zee and Scott Kegans. Van Zee and Kegans were on the squad last year.

League champion Damien had two men picked, Pete Fox and Mike Hunter.

No less than three sophomores made the first unit, Claremont's Tipping, Garey's fine midfielder Dioscoro and Chino's high-scoring Tony Zendejas.

Damien and Claremont both placed three men apiece in on the All-SAL second team. Garey topped the honorable mention list with four selections.

Cheetahs set six meet marks

LONG BEACH — The Southern California Cheetahs girls' track club set six meet records Sunday at the Long Beach Relays at Long Beach State.

Barrie Greer, competing in the 12-13 division, broke meet marks with her discus throw of 119 feet, 11 inches and her shot put of 45-4¾.

In the same division, Melanie Johnson set a javelin mark at 121-1.

In the 14-15 bracket, the Cheetahs mile relay team (Janet Ballard, Tracie McMurray, Della Equipilag, Barnie Carrall) set a meet record in 3:54.1 and the 440 relay squad (Dawn Peters, Gesselle Lewis, Pam Newton and Ballard) ran a meet record 49.3. Peters' 18-4¾ long jump was also a meet mark.

Sports briefs

DALLAS — Second-seeded Sue Barker defeated Lele Forood 6-2, 6-2 in the opening round of a $100,000 women's pro tennis tournament.

AUCKLAND, New Zealand — World champion motorcyclist Peter Collins of England won the Champion of Champions title, defeating Billy Sanders and Ivan Mauger.

LAGUNA HILLS, Calif. — Bernie Bierman, 82, former University of Minnesota football coach, died after a lengthy illness.

NEW YORK — Ordination, $3.20, beat Dan's Commander in winning the $25,000 Melissa Purse at Aqueduct.

Leos, Stags win in SCIAC outings

La Verne and Claremont-Mudd posted victories Tuesday afternoon in SCIAC conference baseball play.

In junior college action Tuesday, Chaffey opened Mission Conference action with a 5-2 triumph over visiting Southwestern. However, Citrus was clobbered 15-5 by Palomar in its M.C. opener, while Mt. San Antonio dropped a 9-8 decision to visiting Compton.

In other games, Cal Poly saw its season record drop to 3-11 as UC Irvine blanked the Broncos, 2-0. Biola dropped Pomona-Pitzer's season mark to 0-3-1 with a 8-5 win.

La Verne pounded two Caltech pitchers for a total of 21 runs and 19 hits in an easy 21-1 decision. The Leos broke open a 6-1 contest with a 10-run fourth inning. La Verne had 10 hits that inning, including home runs from Rich Ortega and Rick Oliver.

Oliver also had a double as he collected five RBI's in the contest. Pat Proulx was three-for-four for the Leos.

Brent Jetton hurled six innings before being relieved by Kevin Smith in the seventh. Jetton fanned six while walking two. Claremont-Mudd scored two runs in the fifth inning to break a 4-4 deadlock. The Stags went on to rack up seven runs in their last three at bats.

John Pignotti paced the Stags' attack with a four-hit performance which included two doubles, a homerun and five RBI's. Mark Stott was three-for-five at the plate for C-M.

Chaffey, 9-4 on the year, scored three times in the eighth to take a 5-0 advantage. Southwestern rallied for two on a two-run homer in the ninth.

Mike Walters went the distance for the Panthers as he fanned 11 batters. Rick Fellhauer was four for the Panthers. Howard Garcia was three-for-three with a triple.

MSAC saw its record drop to 9-4 as Compton scored three times in the ninth to take the decision on the Mounties' diamond.

Joe Koval collected two hits in three at bats for MSAC including a two-run inside the park homer. MSAC had jumped off to an early 5-1 before Compton rallied with five runs through the middle innings of the contest.

Citrus started Mission Conference action on a losing note as Palomar battered three Citrus pitchers for 16 hits and 15 runs. Palomar was paced by Bill Yetzer who smashed two homeruns, a single and drove in six runs.

Mike Davis had three hits for Citrus. The Owls missed a doubleplay ball in the fourth which opened the flood gates for Palomar. Palomar racked up 14 runs in the fourth, fifth and sixth innings.

Irvine stopped the Broncos on seven hits as Cal Poly lost its 11th contest of the year. Kevin McLean collected three hits for Poly as Irvine's Bob Dobey blanked the Broncos.

Irvine scored the winning run in the second inning on a hits batsman, a stolen base and a fielding miscue by the Broncos' defense.

Pomona-Pitzer carried a 4-3 lead into the bottom of the seventh, but the Sagehens made three crucial errors as Biola scored four times to defeat P-P. Dan Wild had a two-run homer in the four-run seventh for Biola.

Lyle Lansdall had two of the Sagehens' six hits.

The $4 admission price includes a meal. The banquet will honor the Claremont varsity and junior varsity teams.

Citrus cagers shoot for upset

MISSION VIEJO — The surprising Citrus College basketball team will go after another upset here tonight, as the Owls are set to tangle with Saddleback College in the Mission Conference Playoffs.

The Owls, coming off a 59-57 win over Palomar, need a win tonight vs. Saddleback and another win on Friday night vs. the same team to claim the Mission Conference's spot in the upcoming State Junior College Playoffs at Fresno.

Citrus takes a 18-13 record into tonight's game. Saddleback, which claimed part of the M.C. title with Palomar, is 24-8 on the year. The Gauchos were 13-1 in conference outings, Citrus was 8-6.

Tonight's action will get underway at 8 p.m. at the Saddleback gym.

Since the Gauchos were co-champions in the conference, the Owls must beat them twice in order to advance to the State Tourney, set for March 17-19 at Fresno's Selland Arena.

Citrus has played Saddleback three times prior to tonight this year, and dropped all three games. The Gauchos prevailed 104-78 in the Desert Tourney in December, and then beat Citrus twice in league, 104-77 and 65-55.

Citrus coach Neil Edwards will start a lineup of guards Derrick Thomas and Tim Jarvis, forwards Steve Barnes and Bill Rutz, and center Eric Barnes vs. Saddleback tonight.

Childs is the leading Owl scorer and rebounder this year, but Rutz and Barnes have also been effective scoring threats and Jarvis is coming off a great clutch game vs. Palomar, where he had eight points, 10 rebounds and seven assists coming off the bench.

Saddleback is led by Tim Shaw (17.8 points per game), Dennis Smith (22.7) and Rich McElrath (14.8). Those three were all-conference picks.

Bonita claims cage victory

Bonita High's girls basketball squad defeated visiting Alta Loma 61-43 Tuesday afternoon in a Hacienda League contest.

Marsha Huss led all scorers with 17 points for Bonita. Nan Matza added 12 points and seven steals for the Bearkitten girls.

Alta Loma's top scorer was Jill Taylor with 14.

Bonita is now 10-1 on the year and 2-0 in league action. Next game for the Bearkittens will be Thursday at home vs. Royal Oak (3:15 p.m.).

Southland racing

EAST IRVINE — Grudge and amateur drag racing is on tap from 6 p.m. to 10:30 p.m. tonight at Orange County Raceway. Admission: Adults $3.00, Children 6-12 $1.00

Semi-professional handicap E.T. bracket drag racing is scheduled Saturday with a $1,100 cash purse distributed over five E.T. brackets.

IRWINDALE — It's the U.S. against the world in Speedway motorcycle racing Friday and Saturday. The series begins Friday night (8 p.m.) at the Orange County Fairgrounds then moves to Irwindale Saturday night at 8 p.m. The third and final event will be March 19 at the Ventura Fairgrounds.

CORONA — Super stocks will be in action at the Corona Speedway in open competition Sunday. Qualifications start at noon and the first race is slated to start at 1 p.m.

LAS VEGAS, NEV. — First event in the seven-race High Desert Series will be held Saturday in the desert and mountains south of Las Vegas.

The WRA 350, a warmup for the Mint 400 will consist of four laps across barranca-studded desert and up through dry washes that cut a swatch through the mountains.

Q. "WHAT IS AN AARDWOLF?"

A. AN AARDWOLF, OR EARTH WOLF, IS A HYENALIKE ANIMAL THAT LIVES IN AFRICA. IT GETS ITS DUTCH NAME FROM ITS HABIT OF DIGGING A BURROW IN THE EARTH

KIM HEADLEY
RATHWAY, NJ

© 1977 by NEA, Inc. TM Reg U.S. Pat Off. DICK ROGERS 3-9

An aardwolf is a hyenalike animal that lives in southern and eastern Africa.

The name aardwolf, which is Dutch for earth wolf, was given the animal because it makes its home in a deep burrow in the ground.

This shy, harmless animal resembles a small, striped hyena. It has large, erect ears, a pointed muzzle, a short bushy tail and its fur is striped across the back. A long, bristly mane runs down the center of its sloping back.

The aardwolf spends the day in its underground burrow, which it may share with several other aardwolfs, and comes out only at night to hunt food.

True hyenas have powerful jaws and strong teeth, which can crack bones with ease. The aardwolf's teeth are small and weak. It feeds mainly on termites and other insects, which it sweeps up with its long sticky tongue.

When threatened by enemies, the aardwolf emits an evil-smelling odor as a means of defense.

Pomona to offer concert

The Pomona College music department will present a concert of electronic music in Thatcher Music Building at 8:15 p. m. Tuesday. Admission is free.

The compositions are by members of the college's Electronic Studio I, the basic course in electronic music taught by John S. Ritter, associate professor of music.

The composers are Joel Harrison, Scott Reckard, R.C. Manbert, Ric Gagliardi, Jeff Brown, Randy Garrett, Robert Severino, Dana Smith, John Stoffey and Tefkros Symeonides. One of the compositions, entitled "River Cruise," is the joint composition of Garrett and Severino.

CALENDAR CAPERS — Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs pose in front of Sleeping Beauty Castle to call attention to Disneyland's new schedule going into effect next Wednesday. The amusement park will be open from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday through Friday and 9 a.m. to 7 p.m. Saturdays and Sundays. The week-long schedule will continue throughout the summer.

Miller drama slated

Azusa Pacific College will present Arthur Miller's "The Crucible" in the Turner Campus Center at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, Friday and Saturday. Tickets are $1.50.

The cast of 21 stars Joseph Futerman Jr. as John Proctor, Kathi Anderson as Elizabeth Proctor, Cindy Lamb as Abigail Williams, David Rails as Deputy-Governor Danforth, Greg Koukl as the Rev. John Hale and Melanee Stevens as Mary Warren. Mark Koontz directs.

"The Crucible" tells of a 17-year-old girl in colonial Salem who plots to destroy the wife of a man she has fallen in love with. To accomplish this, she forces a group of girls to "cry out witchery" on certain townspeople.

SYMPHONY SOLOIST — The noted harpist Susann McDonald will perform with the Glendale Symphony in a concert at the Pavilion of the Los Angeles Music Center at 8:30 p.m. April 2. Carmen Dragon conducts. Tickets are on sale at the box office and all ticket agencies.

Good for more than laughs

Mrs. Spooner's fut nudge from forgotten cookbook

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
AP Food Editor

When I want to have a good laugh as well as some good chocolate fudge, I look up a recipe for "Fut Nudge" contributed by Col. Lemuel Q. Stoopnagle the late F. Chase Taylor to a long out-of-print cookbook. Stoopnagle was well-known to fans of radio in its heyday and later appeared on television.

If you are interested in making smooth-as-cream chocolate fudge — and according to inquiries many cooks are — read Stoopnagle's scrambled recipe for laughs, then try my version with the ingredients unscrambled and the method revised.

MRS. SPOONER'S FUT NUDGE

2 buttlespoons of taibler
2 cups shanulated grugar
3 cuppers quart of crinn theme or bopp of the tottle
2 chalks of squairkolet
2 spaibel-tunes sorn keerup
1 nup of kelled shuts
A vittle lanilla

Shook the kugar, the chilk, the mawkolet and the sorn keerup until the mawkolet chelts.

Stoil bithoub burring to 234 degees of greet.

Then dairfully crop a little of the mott hixture into a wawt of cold cupper. If little bawft sawls form in the cuttum of the bopp, the dudge is fun. Remove the hann from the peat, bad the utter, let canned until stool and fladd the aivoring. Speat with a boon until gick and thooey, nopp in the druts, empty into battered pun and squark in mairs.

You may marsh addmellows if you have a particularly teet swooth.

Serves a gruzzen doanups or two bean-aged toys.

Contributed by the late F. Chase Taylor Col. Lemuel Q. Stoopnagle of radio fame to a long-out-of-print cookbook.

MRS. SPOONER'S FUT NUDGE, UNSCRAMBLED

2 cups sugar
¾ cup light cream
2 squares, 2 ounces unsweetened chocolate
2 tablespoons light or dark corn syrup
2 tablespoons butter
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 cup walnuts, coarsely broken

In a heavy 1½ quart saucepan over low heat stir together the sugar, cream, chocolate and corn syrup until the sugar and chocolate are melted. Continue cooking very slowly, stirring often, until the mixture reaches 238 degrees on a candy thermometer — a half teaspoon of the syrup dropped into a large bowl full of cold water will form a soft ball that flattens on removal from water; this may take an hour. Off heat, add the butter but do not stir; cool, without stirring, to 110 degrees lukewarm. Add the vanilla and beat with a wooden spoon until mixture has lost almost all its gloss — this takes considerable beating. Quickly stir in the nuts. Turn into a buttered 8 by 8 by 2-inch cake pan. Chill until firm. Cut in squares and remove with a small metal spatula. Arrange on a plate and cover with a cake dome or a bowl; leave at room temperature and the outside of the fudge will dry a bit and the inside will stay creamy for several days.

Note: We revised the method of making this fudge because when we used the original method, once it scorched and once it was too soft.

Corned beef traditional Irish fare

Think Irish, come March 17, and prepare a dinner to do Paddy proud. Serve the traditional corned beef, naturally, but serve it in the modern way. Make it oven-roasted corned beef, accompanied by vegetables that bake right in the same oven.

In the oven? That's right; roasting is recommended for the corned beef that has been made tender through special processing. This lean, oven-style corned beef that is tender and juicy comes in either the mild cure or with garlic and spices.

Because cooking method and time depart from old-fashioned methods, read the easy to prepare directions on the corned beef for oven roasting wrapper. Scrubbed sweet potatoes and a casserole of carrots and onions can go in the same oven during the last hour of roasting.

If you enjoy custom, cabbage belongs in your St. Pat's menu, too, but give it a new look. Cut half a head of cabbage into wedges and simmer in salted water about 15 minutes. Transfer the wedges to a shallow dish and pour a cup of Italian salad dressing over the cabbage. Marinate in the refrigerator while the rest of the dinner bakes and serve as a salad.

At mealtime, you'll have a menu that is true to tradition, but light on last minute work. Dinner is sure to be a success, with or without the luck of the Irish.

CORNED BEEF FOR OVEN ROASTING WITH OVEN-STYLE VEGETABLES

Swift Premium Corned Beef for Oven Roasting
4 carrots, pared and cut into halves
4 small onions, peeled
1 teaspoon salt
¼ cup water
1 stick (½ cup) butter or margarine, melted

Remove wrapper from corned beef. Place roast, fat side up, on a rack in shallow open pan. Roast in 325 degree oven until fork tender, 2¼ to 2½ hours. Place vegetables in a 2 quart shallow baking dish. Sprinkle with salt. Add water and butter. Cover. Place in oven with the corned beef during the last hour of the roasting time.

Cranberry Relish

Cut a large orange into sections and remove seeds; grind (rind and all) with 1 lb. fresh cranberries. Sweeten to taste and stir in ½ c. roasted diced almonds.

'Orange nut bread' timely use for a seasonal fruit

Resumed shipments of carefully inspected fresh citrus from Florida and especially large crops of oranges in California, Texas and Arizona mean fresh oranges continue to be a good value and readily available to shoppers. Viatmin C-rich oranges are delicious whether squeezed into juice, cut up into sections or added to recipes.

Although eight-ounces of freshly-squeezed orange juice more than meets the daily requirements of vitamin C, oranges also contribute other essential nutrients. They contain vitamin A, members of the vitamin B complex including an ample supply of folacin, and essential minerals, according to the United Fresh Fruit and Vegetable Association.

Because oranges are low in sodium and calories, they are perfect for special diets. A 3½-ounce serving of peeled, fresh oranges has a mere 49 calories. And since they're naturally sweet and satisfying, it makes sense to include oranges in weight-reduction programs.

Oranges are in good supply throughout the year with many wonderful varieties offered. Select oranges that are heavy for their size, form, and free of bruises or soft spots.

Color does not indicate quality, so don't use it as a guide. Fully ripened oranges can sometimes have a greenish tinge. This happens to oranges if unseasonally warm weather hits them before they're picked — it's the cold that keeps them orange. In fact, in some countries where the temperature is always warm, oranges are always green. You are assured of completely ripened oranges because U.S. law demands only mature oranges be picked.

At home, refrigerate oranges in a cool, dry, well-ventilated place. Although it's best to use fresh produce as soon as possible, oranges will keep in the refrigerator for weeks.

Try them in Orange Nut Bread, a sweet, delectably-flavored tea variety. It's delicious plain or spread with creamed cheese and served with a fresh fruit salad. Serve it for breakfast, too, or as a healthful dessert or snack.

There is more than one way to slice an orange, and two are suggested here. Fresh Orange Sections are good for salads and Fresh Orange Slices make wonderful garnishes, although the two can be used interchangeably.

ORANGE NUT BREAD

- 1 cup sugar
- ¼ cup water
- ½ cup slivered orange rind
- ¼ cup butter or margarine
- 1 cup fresh orange juice
- 2 eggs, slightly beaten
- 2¼ cups unsifted all-purpose flour
- 3 teaspoons baking powder
- ½ teaspoon baking soda
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1 cup finely chopped walnuts

Combine sugar and water in saucepan. Add orange rind and cook, stirring occasionally, until sugar dissolves. Cook over low heat an additional 5 minutes, continuing to stir. Remove from heat, add butter and stir until melted. Cool slightly. Add orange juice and eggs; mix well. Mix together flour, baking powder, baking soda, salt, and nuts. Add to orange mixture, stirring only until moistened. Pour into greased and waxed paper lined 9 x 5 x 3-inch loaf pan. Let stand 30 20 minutes. Bake in a 350 degree F. oven 1 hour and 5 to 10 minutes; remove from pan and cool completely.

Makes 1 loaf.

FRESH ORANGE SECTIONS

To section oranges, cut pff peel round and round, spiral fashion. Go over fruit again, removing any remaining white membrane. Cut along side of each dividing membrane from outside to middle of core. Remove section by section over bowl to retain juice from fruit.

FRESH ORANGE SLICES

Cut slice from top of each orange, then cut off peel in strips from top to bottom, cutting deep enough to remove white membrane. Or cut off peel round and round spiral fashion. Go over fruit again to remove any remaining membrane. Cut into crosswise slices over bowl to retain juice from fruit.

PEANUT BUTTER BOUILLON

Dieting job-goers may want to carry some along in a vacuum jug.

- 1/3 cup creamy or chunky peanut butter
- 3 cups water
- 3 chicken bouillon cubes
- 1 small onion, finely chopped
- 1 large celery rib minus leaves, finely chopped
- 1 tiny clove garlic, minced
- ½ bay leaf
- Tiny pinch dried hot red pepper flakes
- ¼ teaspoon Worchestershire sauce

In a 1½-quart saucepan gradually whisk the water into the peanut butter. Add the remaining ingredients. Bring to a boil. Simmer, stirring occasionally, until vegetables are soft, flavors blend and mixture is reduced to about 3¼ cups — 45 minutes. Remove bay leaf. Serve in mugs. Makes 3 to 4 servings.

THE KROCHMALS' PINEAPPLE CHICKEN

This combination of chicken, pineapple and tomato crops up in French as well as Caribbean cooking.

- 1 chicken (3 to 4 pounds) cut into serving pieces
- 2 tablespoons lime juice
- ½ cup flour
- 4 tablespoons margarine (½ stick)
- 1 cup tomato sauce
- 1 tablespoon brown sugar
- ¼ cup raisins
- 1 small onion, chopped
- 1 can (13 oz.) pineapple chunks, drained, or fresh pineapple
- 2 tablespoons rum

Sprinkle the chicken with the lime juice. Dust with the flour and brown in the margarine. Add the tomato sauce, brown sugar, raisins and onion. Cover and cook over low heat for 40 minutes, or until tender. Stir in the pineapple and rum. Heat thoroughly and serve. Makes 6 servings.

CHARLOTTE MOSENTHAL'S DILL SLAW

When it's available, use fresh dill to taste instead of the dried.

- 1 tablespoon cider vinegar
- 2 tablespoons mayonnaise
- 1 teaspoon sugar
- 1 teaspoon dill weed
- ½ teaspoon salt
- ¼ teaspoon pepper
- 1 quart shredded green cabbage, slightly packed
- ½ cup grated medium fine carrot, slightly packed
- 2 small scallions, finely sliced

Stir together well the vinegar, mayonnaise, sugar, dill, salt and pepper. Add the cabbage, carrot and scallions and toss until vegetables are well coated with the mayonnaise mixture. Serve at once because slaw will not be as flavorful the next day. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

Ham, colcannon bake for St. Patrick's Day 'feast'

Progress Bulletin
Food
Pomona, California ■ Wednesday, March 9, 1977

For a St. Patrick's Day meal that's traditional as a shamrock and quick as a leprechaun, here's a recipe for Ham and Colcannon Bake that was especially developed for the occasion by The R.T. French Company Test Kitchens in Rochester, New York.

Colcannon in the original Irish Gaelic simply meant green cabbage and something white. It has evolved over the years to mean cabbage and mashed potatoes, a favorite Irish dish. In this new version, using instant mashed potato granules, the potatoes and the cabbage are prepared in the same pan, saving time and clean up.

The ham is studded with whole cloves for a traditional flavor, and preparation time is less than half an hour.

For a perfect St. Patrick's Day meal, serve a Creamy Horseradish Salad, made delicately green with a few drops of food color and zestily seasoned with prepared yellow mustard. Round out your dinner with hot rolls, a frosted cake, and coffee, tea or milk.

HAM AND COLCANNON BAKE

1 ham slice about 1½ pounds
Whole cloves
3 tablespoons butter
4 cups coarsely chopped cabbage
1½ cups water
1 teaspoon salt
½ cup milk
1 envelope (5 servings) mashed potato granules

Pierce ham slice with 4 or 5 cloves; place on bake and serve pan. Melt 2 tablespoons butter in medium-size saucepan. Add cabbage, cover, and cook 5 minutes, stirring occasionally. Add water, salt, and milk; bring to a boil. Remove from heat. Gradually add contents of potato envelope, stirring briskly with fork. Spoon around edge of ham slice; dot with remaining 1 tablespoon butter. Bake at 400 degrees for 20 minutes; until hot. Yield: 5 to 6 servings.

CREAMY HORSERADISH SALAD

1 package (3-oz.) lime flavored gelatin
1 cup boiling water
2 tablespoons prepared horseradish, drained
2 tablespoons prepared yellow mustard
3 to 4 drops green food color
1 cup heavy cream
Lettuce

Dissolve gelatin in boiling water; stir in horseradish and mustard using fork or wire whisk. Chill until slightly thickened. Combine food color and heavy cream; whip until thickened. Fold into partially set gelatin. Pour into oiled 3 or 4 cup mold; chill until firm. Unmold onto lettuce lined serving plate. Yield: 4 to 5 servings.

HAM AND COLCANNON BAKE, for St. Patrick's Day

Whole wheat loaves

By Cecily Brownstone
AP Food Editor

Whole wheat bread comes in varying hues, depending on whether it is made entirely with whole wheat flour or with the addition of some white flour. We get most requests for recipes for the former, so here goes.

There's an interesting all whole wheat loaf in a fine new cookbook, "Good Bread" by Barbara Joan Hansen Macmillan. This recipe came to Barbara from a young man who was into "health" foods and who, with his brothers, baked the bread for a restaurant. We find this loaf stays moist, slices well and has great flavor. Here's our adaptation of the recipe.

ALL WHOLE WHEAT LOAF

1½ cups warm water (105 to 115 degrees)
1 envelope active dry yeast
3½ to 4 cups fine or medium-fine whole wheat flour
2 teaspoons salt
2 tablespoons oil
2 tablespoons molasses
¼ cup hulled raw sunflower seeds

In large warm bowl sprinkle the yeast over the water; stir to dissolve, stir in 1½ cups of the flour. Cover and let stand in a draftfree warm 80 degrees place until mixture about half fills the bowl and is very bubbly and spongy underneath — 1 hour. Beat down. Stir in the salt, oil, molasses and sunflower seeds. Gradually stir in enough of the remaining flour to make a stiff dough. Turn out on a smooth surface floured with whole wheat flour; knead until smooth and elastic — about 10 minutes. Place in an oiled bowl; turn to oil top; cover and let stand in a draftfree warm 80 degrees place until doubled — 1 hour. Punch down; knead briefly. Shape into a loaf and place in an oiled 9 by 5 by 3-inch loaf pan. Let rise in a draftfree warm 80 degrees place until dough is as high as pan — about 1 hour.

Bake in a pre-heated 350-degree oven until browned and top sounds hollow when tapped with knuckles — 30 minutes. Turn out on a wire rack; turn right side up; cool completely. Makes 1 loaf.

Note: If the bottom of the loaf is pale and quite soft when you turn it out, slip the loaf, bottom-side-up, back into the pan and continue baking until browned — perhaps another 10 minutes.

Dining-out habits studied

Soup secrets are revealed; restaurants share recipes

Wintertime is soup time, and the cold wind and snow that came early to most parts of the country this year are expected to increase soup consumption, says a new study in which the National Restaurant Association (NRA) participated.

The steadily increasing trend toward greater soup consumption in cold weather was revealed in the first full year report of the Chain Restaurant Eating-Out Share Trends (CREST) study, a unique dairy-panel study co-sponsored by the NRA and 19 restaurants firms. CREST tracks the dining-out habits of 10,000 U.S. families chosen by Census Bureau criteria to represent the entire U.S. population.

"This winter has been extraordinarily cold," notes NRA President Patrick L. O'Malley. "The colder it becomes, the more often American restaurant-goers order soup."

Many American restaurants are well-known for their soup dishes. Here are several recipes from famous restaurants that you can make at home:

PEA SOUP
BUELLTON, CALIF.

2 quarts of soft water
2 cups of green split peas
1 branch of celery, coarsely chopped
1 large carrot, chopped
1 small onion, chopped
¼ teaspoon of ground thyme
1 pinch of cayenne
1 bayleaf — salt — pepper

Boil vigorously for 20 minutes, then slowly until peas are tender. Strain through fine sieve and reheat to boiling point. Serve.

DON ROTH'S BLACKHAWK RESTAURANT, CHICAGO
GOULASH SOUP

1 lb. beef stew meat
2 teaspoons marjoram
2½ teaspoons salt
Several pinches of caraway seed
2 tablespoons of paprika
½ cup vinegar
6 potatoes peeled and sliced
4 sliced onions
1 small can tomato puree
1 cup roux (flour-water-butter mix)

Combine meat in pot with marjoram, salt. Cover with about two quarts water. Add caraway, paprika, vinegar. Cover and simmer about two hours, stirring occasionally. Add potatoes, onions and tomato puree. Stir, cook one hour. Add roux, stirring well. Cook until potatoes are done, about 10 minutes more.

CRAB, CORN BISQUE
COMMANDER'S PALACE, NEW ORLEANS

Stock:
6 medium hard-shelled crabs
1½ quarts water
2 medium yellow onions, quartered
6 celery stalks, coarsely chopped
2 tablespoons liquid crab boil

In a heavy saucepan, bring all of the above to a rolling boil, then reduce heat to simmer. Cook for three hours. Add water to keep at one quart liquid.

1¼ cup chopped green onions
4 lb. lump crabmeat
1 cup heavy cream
2 tablespoons flour
Pinch of thyme
1 teaspoon powdered garlic
1 teaspoon cayenne
2 cups corn (12 oz.)

In a three-quart saucepan, saute onions in butter until wilted. Add flour and seasonings and cook until flour begins to stick to pan. Add crab stock and simmer for 15 minutes. Add corn and simmer for 15 more minutes. Add cream slowly and stir. Remove from heat. Let stand for one-half hour. Reheat to serve. Serves six to eight.

Fresh apple salad

As the warmer weather approaches, menu planners like to add fresh salads to family diets.

Here's a salad recipe which combines zesty Caesar dressing with crisp California Red Delicious apples. Hearty enough for lunch or a light supper, accompanied by soup and crusty French bread, this salad can be easily prepared in minutes. For convenience, the dressing can be made at the time of the meal or ahead of time and stored in the refrigerator.

For variety, use both California Red Delicious and Green Newtown Pippins currently coming out of cold storage. Housewives are becoming accustomed to seeing apples even in late spring due to a controlled atmosphere storage process which keeps apples as fresh as the day they've been harvested.

FRESH APPLE SALAD
CAESAR STYLE

1/3 cup salad oil
2 tablespoons lemon juice
¾ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon tarragon, crumbled
½ teaspoon dry mustard
1 teaspoon sugar
⅛ teaspoon pepper
3 drops tabasco
1 egg, lightly beaten
1½ quarts crisp romaine, in bite size pieces
1 quart thinly sliced California Red Delicious apples
¼ cup sliced green onion
¼ cup grated Parmesan cheese
6 slices crisp bacon, crumbled coarsely
Croutons and extra grated Parmesan cheese for topping

Combine oil, lemon juice, salt, tarragon, mustard, sugar, pepper, tabasco and egg. Beat together, or shake well in covered jar. Combine romaine, California Red Delicious apples and onion in large chilled salad bowl. Pour dressing over salad and toss lightly. Sprinkle with ¼ cup Parmesan cheese and bacon and toss again. Serve with croutons and extra Parmesan cheese, if desired. Makes 6 servings.

Ginger root

Fresh ginger root may be kept for a long time if it is frozen or put in a jar, covered with sherry and refrigerated.

For sweets-hungry children

Banana pancakes, biscuits, muffins make good snacks

Don't hesitate to stock up on bananas. They'll never go to waste. Even the very ripe ones will serve you, as these are the bananas that work best in any number of bread, cake and muffin recipes.

Bananas can be diced into pancake batter and baked. Banana Biscuits are sticky-sweet and loaded with rich, banana flavor. Make them with convenient refrigerated buttermilk biscuits. Banana Muffins are simple, just substitute mashed ripe bananas for liquid usually used in packaged muffin mix. And Banana Poundcake, made with yellow cake mix in a bundt cake pan of tube pan, is sure to be a favorite for family and company.

Bananas eaten out of hand are the ideal, healthful snack for children who crave sweets. And bananas are easy to work into your daily menu plans. Use them with meat and poultry in main dishes; split, brush with butter or margarine, and broil for a side dish; cut them up into salads or make them part of your desserts. Bananas are a pleasant way to introduce children to new foods. Combine slices or chunks with the vegetables, meats or cereals children may not know or care to taste.

Bananas are practical, too. They offer their natural sweetness and moisture; they add flavor and help to stretch a meal. Besides, bananas are nutrition bonuses, with their high supply of potassium and contribution of essential vitamins. They are low in sodium and 99.8 per cent fat free. And for the calorie counters one six-inch long banana (100 grams) counts a mere 100 calories, impressive when you consider the nice, satisfied feeling one gets after eating a banana.

BANANA PANCAKES

Prepare pancake batter from a mix, following package directions, or with favorite recipe. Add 1 diced banana to batter and bake as directed.

BANANA BISCUITS

¼ cup butter or margarine
¼ cup apricot jam or orange marmalade
1/3 cup flaked coconut
2 bananas
1 package (9.5 oz.) refrigerated buttermilk buscuits

Divide butter among 10 muffin pan cups. Place muffin pan in 400 degree F. oven until butter melts. Divide jam and coconut among muffin cups. Peel bananas and cut into slices. Place about 3 banana slices in each muffin cup and place a biscuit in each cup. Bake in 400 degree F. oven for 20 minutes or until biscuits are golden brown and a cake tester inserted in the center comes out clean. Cool for 10 minutes, turn out of pan and serve warm.

Makes 10 biscuits.

BANANA MUFFINS

1 package (10 oz.) muffin mix
1 egg
1 cup mashed ripe bananas (3 medium)

Prepare muffins according to package directions, substituting bananas for liquid. Bake in 400 degree F. oven 20 minutes or until a cake tester inserted in center of muffin comes out clean.

Makes 12 muffins.

BANANA POUNDCAKE

1 package (18½ oz.) yellow cake mix
4 eggs, at room temperature
1/3 cup salad oil
½ cup water
1 and 1/3 cups mashed ripe bananas (4 medium)
1 package (3¾ oz.) instant vanilla pudding mix
½ teaspoon cinnamon
½ teaspoon nutmeg

Combine all ingredients in large bowl. Mix until blended, then beat at medium speed for 4 minutes. Turn batter into greased and lightly floured 10-inch bundt cake pan or 10-inch tube pan. Bake in 350 degree F. oven for 1 hour or until cake tester inserted in cake comes out clean. Cool in pan 10 minutes, then turn out onto rack and cool completely. If desired, dust with confectioners' sugar before serving.

Makes 16 servings.

Try honey bee coffee bread first

Naturally sweet honey, brown sugar, crunchy nuts, and home baked bread — a truly delicious combination!

Honey Bee Coffee Bread is easy to make, and economical, too, using frozen bread dough.

HONEY BEE COFFEE BREAD

1 one-pound loaf frozen bread dough
1/3 cup honey
1/3 cup brown sugar
1/3 cup chopped nuts
2 tablespoons melted butter
1 tablespoon cinnamon

Let dough thaw in refrigerator overnight or at room temperature. On lightly floured board roll dough out to a 12 x 16-inch rectangle. Sprinkle brown sugar on dough. Roll up in jelly roll fashion, beginning with 16-inch side.

In bottom of greased 9-inch pie plate or square 7 x 10¾ inch cake pan, spread honey and sprinkle with nuts and cinnamon. Cut rolled dough into 1-inch pieces. Place cut side down in pan. Baste rolls with melted butter. Let rise in a warm place until tripled in size. Bake in preheated 375 degree oven for 25-30 minutes or until golden brown. Turn out immediately onto serving plate.

Add a flair to family fare

By Helen Houston Boileau

Boil 1 cup maple syrup until it hardens quickly in cold water. Dip 1 inch bread crumbs in this and dry on waxed paper. A fine sweet for youngsters.

* * *

Spread a thick 1 pound slice of ham with peanut butter (1/3 cup) and pan fry until done on bottom, then place under broiler for 5 minutes. Make a sauce of juices.

* * *

Add 1 cup grated chocolate to 2½ cups sweetened whipped cream, then fold in 1 quart washed and drained rasberries.

* * *

Serve French Toast topped with appleasuce and crumbled bacon.

* * *

Add gingerale to a fruit nectar for a delicious beverage.

* * *

Combine crushed pineapple and mint jelly for ice cream topping.

* * *

Stuff large, hollowed out tomatoes with hash and top with a poached egg.

* * *

Warm puffed cereal in a skillet with butter or bacon drippings and serve with cream and sugar.

* * *

Maple Shortcake is made by boiling 1 cup maple syrup with 2 tablespoons butter, beating until creamy and serving this over hot, buttered shortcake.

* * *

Before adding chopped onions to a stew or hash, fry them, then sprinkle with a little powdered sugar. Less strong but a delicate taste

* * *

Spike up dishes using leftover meat (hash, deep dish pies etc.) by including a few pieces of fresh liver.

* * *

Add the tiniest bit of sugar to egg dishes. Makes a subtle difference.

* * *

Sieve 1 small can apricots and fold into 1 stiffly beaten egg white, ¼ cup whipped cream and 1 teaspoonful rum. Chill.

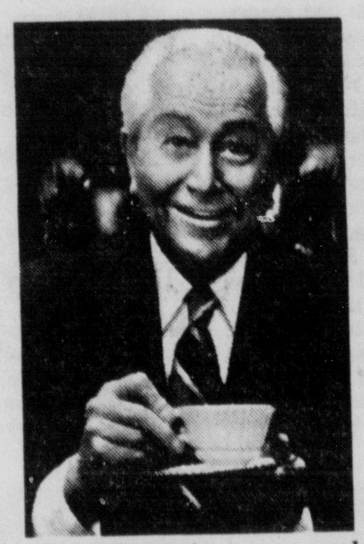

* * *

Use ½ cup crushed cornflakes and ⅛ teaspoon almond extract in place of ½ cup nuts in cakes or cookies. Gives a nutty flavor.

* * *

Butter graham crackers, sprinkle with sugar and cinnamon and place in the oven until brown and crisp.

Chase away winter doldrums

Greet warmer weather with Polynesian fruited pork stew

What could be better to welcome warmer weather than creating a spectacular dinner combining refreshing fruits and meat? Hardly anything! And, to chase away any leftover winter doldrums, prepare your special spring dishes with great flair in a chafing dish.

Table-top cookery is dramatic because you can do it right before your guests — no need to abandon them for the kitchen.

Polynesian Fruited Pork Stew is an imaginative combination of tastes and textures with an exotic tropical touch. Pineapple, bananas and flaked coconut blend with the pork and vegetables making an entree that's interesting and flavorful.

Curried Chicken with Fruits is another chafing dish specialty that's perfect for larger parties or second-helping guests. It can partially be made ahead of time. A sauce made with orange juice and poured over the stuffed chicken breasts gives a fresh, lively touch.

POLYNESIAN FRUITED PORK STEW

1 pound pork shoulder, cut into 1-inch cubes
¼ cup flour
1¾ teaspoons salt, divided
¼ teaspoon pepper
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
1 onion sliced
1 green pepper, thinly sliced
½ cup chopped celery
2 cloves garlic, minced
1 teaspoon ground ginger
1 cup unsweetened pineapple juice
1½ cups quartered pineapple slices or pineapple cubes
1 package (6 ounces) frozen snow peas, thawed
2 medium bananas, sliced
2 tablespoons flaked coconut

Mix flour, 1 teaspoon salt and pepper. Coat pork cubes with flour mixture. Melt butter in Dutch oven or kettle; add meat and brown on all sides. Add onion, green pepper, celery, garlic and ginger; cook over low heat until tender. Stir in pineapple juice; add remaining ¾ teaspoon salt. Cover and simmer 1 hour or until meat is tender. Transfer to deep chafing dish. Add pineapple, snow peas and sliced bananas. Heat over canned heat. Sprinkle with coconut. If desired, serve in pineapple shells.

YIELD: 4 to 6 servings.

Note: If desired, 1 can (1 pound) sliced pineapple in juice may be substituted for fresh pineapple. Reserve juice and add enough water to make 1 cup.

CURRIED CHICKEN WITH FRUITS

1 can (8¼ ounces) crushed pineapple in syrup
½ cup orange sections, cut in small pieces
1½ teaspoons salt, divided
1 teaspoon dry mustard, divided
¼ teaspoon ginger, divided
6 chicken breasts, boned, skinned and halved
3 tablespoons cornstarch
3 tablespoons butter or margarine
About 1 cup orange juice
1 teaspoon curry powder
⅛ teaspoon ginger; reserve. Place breast halves between 2 pieces of foil; pound with side of cleaver or rolling pin to flatten. Sprinkle with ½ teaspoon salt. Divide pineapple-orange mixture among breast halves. Fold sides over filling and roll to all 12 chicken rolls in blazer; cover and simmer 30 minutes. Remove chicken rolls from blazer; strain liquid. To ½ cup orange juice add cornstarch, ½ teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon dry mustard, ⅛ teaspoon ginger and curry powder; blend until smooth. Add cornstarch mixture to hot liquid in blazer. Heat until mixture thickens and comes to a boil. Return chicken rolls to blazer and place over boiling water. Garnish with orange slices and parsley, if desired.

YIELD: 12 servings.

POLYNESIAN FRUITED PORK STEW

For perky pork, poultry, fish

Peanut-barley stuffing spruces up 'springtime'

Houses, gardens and wardrobes are not the only things that need sprucing up in the springtime. The fare you feed the family may need a little attention, too, especially if you are serving the same things week after week. A wonderful way to revitalize the daily menu is by trying something new like Peanut-Barley Stuffing.

Different and delicious Peanut-Barley Stuffing perks up pork, poultry and fish. Even vegetables like green peppers, eggplant and tomatoes become exciting entrees stuffed with this marvelous mixture. And, although it's super as a stuffing, it is equally good served alone as a side dish.

Peanut-Barley Stuffing not only enhances a meal, but it also is mighty nutritious. Peanuts and barley when paired together in adequate amounts form a complete protein, which means that they provide the eight essential amino acids that our body does not manufacture and must get from the foods we eat.

You really can get charged up about cooking with savory Peanut-Barley Stuffing in your menu plans. But more than giving you a lift, this super stuffing can give a lift to a tired food budget. No expensive or hard-to-find ingredients here! Economical, nutritious and tasty — Peanut-Barley Stuffing really is a spring tonic!

PEANUT-BARLEY STUFFING

1½ cups quick cooking pearled barley
1½ teaspoons beef flavored instant bouillon
1 tablespoon vegetable oil
1 cup chopped onion
1 clove garlic, crushed
1 can (4 oz.) mushroom stems and pieces, chopped
1 cup chopped peanuts
¼ cup chopped parsley
1 tablespoon fresh lemon juice
½ teaspoon leaf thyme
Dash of cayenne pepper

Cook barley according to package directions adding beef bouillon to water. Cook until all water is absorbed. In a saucepan saute onion and garlic in oil until tender; add mushrooms and continue cooking several minutes. Stir into cooked barley along with peanuts, parsley, lemon juice, thyme and pepper. Serve as a meat accompaniment or use to stuff peppers, tomatoes, cabbage or eggplant. Will stuff 6-8 thick pork chops. Makes about 3 cups.

Good old greens coming back to American table

By Aileen Claire
NEA Food Editor

Call them "soul food," earthy old favorites, health or "natural" foods; good old greens are coming back to the American table. For example, collard greens, mustard greens, kale and spinach are getting a run at the supermarket and fruit and vegetable stands as a new generation discovers they're good to eat and good nutritionally. It seems this is another "grandma was right" situation.

Greens are excellent sources of vitamins and minerals and low in calories. When cooked properly, most nutrients are retained. And, they're always good in a crunchy, fresh garden salad.

COOKED GREENS

To prepare greens for cooking, wash well in cold water, lifting greens out of the water and rinsing several times. Cut off root ends, tough stems and discolored leaves. Greens can be cooked in only the water that clings to the leaves during washing. Place freshly rinsed leaves in saucepan, cover and bring quickly to a boil. Reduce heat and cook gently until tender — 3 to 5 minutes for kale, spinach and dandelion greens, 10 to 15 minutes for turnip greens and collards and 15 to 20 minutes for mustard greens. Older greens may require longer cooking time and additional water. When cooking older leaves place in saucepan with one-half inch water and follow directions given below. One pound raw greens when cooked will yield 3 servings.

ITALIAN GREENS

2 pounds greens
1 clove garlic, crushed
1 tablespoon olive oil
¼ teaspoon sugar
⅛ teaspoon pepper
¼ cup grated Parmesan cheese
Raw onion rings

Mix garlic, oil, sugar and pepper in shallow pan. Add washed and trimmed greens, cover, bring to boil quickly, reduce heat and cook over low heat until tender. Turn onto serving plate and sprinkle with cheese. Top with raw onion rings. Makes 6 servings.

BRAISED KALE

1 pound fresh kale
3 slices bacon, cut in 1-inch pieces
½ cup chopped fresh onions
1 small bay leaf
1 chicken bouillon cube
1 teaspoon salt

Wash kale and remove coarse stems. Drain but do not dry. Cut into 2-inch pieces. In a medium saucepan cook bacon until lightly browned. Add onion and cook until tender. Add kale, bay leaf, bouillon cube and salt. Cover and cook over medium heat for 15 minutes, or until kale is tender. Makes 4 servings.

SOUTHERN-STYLE GREENS

2 pounds greens (kale, collards, mustard greens, turnip greens)
3 tablespoons bacon drippings, butter or salad oil
1 clove garlic, mashed
2 onions separated and sliced into rings
1 teaspoon dried leaf basil
½ cup beef broth or water
1 teaspoon salt
Pepper to taste

Wash and trim greens, cutting off stems. Drain but do not dry. Tear leaves into 2- to 3-inch pieces. Heat fat in a large skillet. Add garlic, onions and basil. Cook until onions are golden, stirring occasionally. Add greens, broth or water and salt. Cover, bring to a boil; reduce heat and cook 20 to 25 minutes until greens are tender, stirring occasionally. Season with pepper to taste. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

GERMAN-STYLED WILTED LETTUCE

6 cups lettuce torn into bite-size pieces
2 large hard-cooked eggs, diced
1/3 cup chopped Bermuda onion
4 slices bacon
1 tablespoon sugar
½ teaspoon salt
3 tablespoons cider vinegar

Wash lettuce, drain well, dry and tear into bite-size pieces. Place in a salad bowl. Sprinkle with hard-cooked egg and onion. Set aside. Cook bacon until lightly browned. Remove and drain, then crumble over lettuce. Cool fat slightly, add sugar, salt and vinegar. Heat to boiling and pour over lettuce. Toss lightly. Serve immediately. Makes 6 servings.

Nutrition ranked first in weight watchers' program

The overconsumption of food, which can lead to obesity, "is a major public health problem in our country," according to Dr. Reva T. Frankle, Nutrition Director of Weight Watchers International, Inc.

"The overeating of wrong foods, instead of eating the proper portions of the right foods, can also lead to malnutrition along with the obesity."

The new Weight Watchers eating program, designed to help people lose weight, features optimum nutrition as a "number one concern." This, coupled with behavior modification techniques, is helping to provide a realistic solution to that problem, says Dr. Frankle.

Dr. Frankle's observations were made at a recent conference and reported here by both Gary Bart and Al Cutler, Area Directors for Weight Watchers in Orange, Riverside, San Bernardino and San Diego Counties.

The new Weight Watchers eating plan, introduced here and throughout the U.S. and abroad last month, consists of a simplified eating program for weight reduction, and a brand new "Maintenance Plan" for maintaining that weight loss.

In her report, Dr. Frankle, a public health nutritionist formerly with the Bureau of Nutrition of the New York City Health Department and faculty of Mt. Sinai School of Medicine and Columbia University, described the planning that went into the development of the new eating regimen, which she termed "the most nutritionally sound weight loss and weight maintenance program available."

She said the program represents two years of development and investigation by the Weight Watchers Nutrition Department, which already was engaged in an ongoing process of constant evaluation of all aspects of its food program.

"The rapid appearance of new foods in the marketplace, the advent of nutrition labeling, and new nutrition data mandated change. The average consumer is reading labels and has new information at his disposal in making choices. Armed with the most recent scientific data, we accepted the challenge."

Dr. Frankle said that in the development of the program, food items on the new eating plan and Maintenance Plan were carefully reviewed for nutrient composition.

"We consulted government data, conferred with other nutritionists and representatives of public, private and voluntary agencies, and reviewed data on specific food products."

"Decisions were based on a total nutrition package — nutrients and caloric values," Dr. Frankle said.

She pointed out that in both the basic weight reduction program and maintenance plan "nutrition guidelines are of primary importance."

Since maintenance of weight loss is the real challenge, we are particularly proud of our contribution toward this aim. It is realistic and will help members cope with the ever-increasing new foods that appear in the marketplace."

Dr. Frankle added, "As a nutrition educator concerned with how people learn about good nutrition and how they change their behavior, I believe that a person committed to losing weight must assume some responsibility and play an active role in his or her destiny. It is wrong to foster dependency.

"Though the new eating program continues to stress discipline as strenously as ever, it places the responsibility for making some personal choices on the member. It can be structured and rigid or flexible, depending upon the member's need."

Let spring's exhilarating weather and blue skies usher in refreshing new menu ideas. Your family will enjoy a sunny change in foods and flavors at the dinner table after winter's doldrums.

An excellent recipe choice in tune with the sprightly season is Lemony Beef Blade Steak. This spring inspiration is from the sun-bathed Aegean Islands of Greece. Here long ago blossoming lemon trees and the availability of eggs stimulated the creation of lively sauces made by blending lemon juice with beaten eggs. This interesting food duo, that supplies both flavor and thickening, is used to sauce the steak in this savory recipe.

Lemony Beef Blade Steak is thrifty as well as delicious, since blade steaks cost considerably less per pound than most. Cut from the less tender chuck section, they benefit from the slow braising called for in this recipe. This budget beef buy provides the same high quality protein, B vitamins and iron as more costly cuts.

The recipe is simple to prepare. The steak is first braised to tenderness with dill weed, a popular herb in Greece. It is then removed and kept warm while the egg-lemon mixture is slowly cooked in the pan drippings for the piquant sauce.

LEMONY BEEF BLADE STEAK

1 beef blade steak, cut ¾ to 1 inch thick.
2 tablespoons flour
1 teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
2 tablespoons lard or drippings
½ teaspoon dill weed
½ cup water
2 eggs, beaten
2 tablespoons lemon juice
½ teaspoon sugar
Water

Combine flour, salt and pepper, dredge steak and brown on both sides in lard or drippings in large frying-pan. Pour off drippings. Sprinkle steak with dill weed; add water, cover tightly and cook slowly for 1½ hours or until tender. Place steak on hot platter and keep warm. Add lemon juice and sugar to eggs, mixing well. Measure cooking liquid and add water to make 1 cup; add small amount to egg mixture, beating constantly. Stir in remaining cooking liquid, return to frying-pan and cook very slowly, stirring constantly until thickened, 3 to 5 minutes.

For a memorable meal

Steak au poivre, potatoes pont neuf add wine flavor

Think back to the last time you were invited to a friend's home for dinner. You wanted to contribute a memorable wine to complement your meal but had no idea which wine to bring to suit the occasion.

There are really only two ways to be assured that the wine you bring will be right. You could ask the hostess what her menu will be, which might be embarrassing, or you could choose a bottle of wine that goes with almost anything . . . anytime. That's the secret appeal of a rose wine; it has the body and flavor of red wine, thanks to the red grape skins that are left in the crushing during the first 24 hours of fermentation, and the subtlety and freshness of a fine white wine as well.

Bring a rose and be assured that the wine will be right, whether your host has prepared "Steak au Poivre" with "Sauce Bearnaise" and accompanied by "Potatoes Pont Neuf" or chicken or a casserole.

STEAK AU POIVRE

4 filet mignon, or sirloin tip trimmed of excess fat and cut in portions 2 inches thick
4 tablespoons peppercorns, coarsely crushed
4 tablespoons oil
1 cup Rose wine
¼ cup brandy (optional)
Salt to taste
1 tablespoon butter
4 toast rounds
Watercress for garnish

Press both sides of trimmed steaks firmly into cracked peppercorns until smoking in a heavy bottomed skillet. Quickly brown steaks on both sides and set pan into a moderate oven (375 degrees F) for 12 minutes or until steak is cooked to desired degree of doneness. Set steaks aside, pour off excess oil from pan and pour in Rose and brandy. Cook, stirring in browned bits that cling to the bottom of the pan, until liquid has reduced by ½. Season to taste with salt and stir in butter. To serve, arrange steaks on toast rounds on a heated serving platter. Top with pan juices and garnish with watercress. Makes 4 servings.

SAUCE BEARNAISE

1 cup rose wine
1 tablespoon vinegar
1 tablespoon tarragon
3 egg yolks
½ pound melted butter
Dash cayenne or Tabasco

Cook rose wine, vinegar and tarragon over high heat until reduced by 2/3 of its original volume. Remove from heat and cool slightly. Stirring constantly add egg yolks and beat vigorously, alternating with melted butter until sauce has the consistency of mayonnaise. Strain and serve warm. Makes about 1½ cups sauce.

POTATOES PONT NEUF

4 medium baking potatoes
½ cup oil
Salt and pepper to taste

Wash and peel potatoes. Cut into even strips, 4 x ¾ x ¾-inches and set in cold water until ready to cook. Drain and pat potato strips dry. Cook in hot oil, turning occasionally until browned around the edges and cooked through, about 15 minutes. Serve in neat piles with two strips parallel on the bottom and two strips crosswise stacked on top. Salt and pepper stack to taste. Makes enough potatoes to serve 4.

Chicken Valhalla a feast

Since the days of the elaborate feasts of King Arthur's court to the present, when a "chicken in every pot" is still a political promise, chicken has remained dear to people's palates.

That popularity can be attributed partly to chicken's relatively low consumer cost. But its versatility, as well as the simplicity of many different recipes, also accounts for its great popularity at home and on restaurant menus.

One such recipe, which combines the light taste of chicken breasts with the heartier flavor of baked ham, is whimsically called "Chicken Valhalla." Chicken and ham were popular at lavish medieval feasts, as was mead, a flavor captured in today's Irish Mist liqueur, which also graces this combination dish.

Yet, the actual preparation of this recipe is no yeoman-like task. In fact, it takes little time and even less effort and, served over a bed of wild rice, it's truly "chicken fit for a king." Even Arthur would have enjoyed it.

CHICKEN VALHALLA

4 thin slices baked ham, cut in half
4 whole chicken breasts, split and boned
1 can (10¾ oz.) condensed cream of mushroom soup
1 cup (8 oz.) sour cream
½ cup Irish Mist
1 cup (¼ lb.) sliced fresh mushrooms

In 6 inch x 10 inch baking dish, arrange slices of ham. On each ham slice place a chicken breast, skin side up. Mix remaining ingredients together and pour over all, covering chicken completely. Bake in preheated 300 degree oven 1½ hours. Serve over bed of wild rice, if desired. Makes 4-6 servings.

Cheesy potato 'rings'

By Aileen Claire
NEA Food Editor

A cheesy potato ring filled with mixed, cooked vegetables makes an attractive dish to put before hungry table companions. Those into some form of vegetarianism will find this acceptable, and it does contain protein from Cheddar cheese and eggs. For others, serve this with Canadian bacon slices and a mixed fruit salad.

CHEESY POTATO RING

5 cups frozen potatoes O'Brien
6 tablespoons butter or margarine
1/16 teaspoon pepper
1½ teaspoon salt
¼ cup sifted all-purpose flour
1¾ cups milk
½ teaspoon prepared mustard
1½ cups grated Cheddar cheese
4 large eggs, well beaten
3 cups hot cooked vegetables

Turn potatoes into colander and rinse with very hot water. Drain well and pat dry with paper towel. Butter a 5½ cup ring mold heavily, using about 2 tablespoons butter. Dust lightly with flour, shaking out excess. Set aside. Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Melt remaining 4 tablespoons butter and blend in pepper, salt and ¼ cup flour. Stir in milk and cook, stirring constantly, until sauce boils thoroughly and thickens. Stir in mustard and potatoes. Add cheese and eggs, mixing well. Spoon into prepared mold. Set in pan with hot water to half the depth of mold. Bake in preheated oven for about 45 minutes. Turn potatoes into colander and rinse with very hot water. Drain well and pat dry with paper towel. Butter a 5½ cup ring mold heavily, using about 2 tablespoons butter. Dust lightly with flour, shaking out excess. Set aside. Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Melt remaining 4 tablespoons butter and blend in pepper, salt and ¼ cup flour. Stir in milk and cook, stirring constantly, until sauce boils thoroughly and thickens. Stir in mustard and potatoes. Add cheese and eggs, mixing well. Spoon into prepared mold. Set in pan with hot water to half the depth of mold. Bake in preheated oven for about 45 minutes. Invert over servingplate. Fill center with hot cooked vegetables. Makes 6 servings.

MARY K. VIEIRA

Vieira-Stearman

Announcement is made by Mr. and Mrs. John J. Vieira of Pomona of the engagement of their daughter, Mary Katherine, to Steven Michael Stearman of Pomona, son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Stearman of Pomona.

She is a graduate of Pomona High School and Mt. San Antonio College and is employed by Levy, Koszdin, Goldscmid and Sroloff, attorneys, as a legal secretary.

Mr. Steaman graduated from Pomona High School and attends MSAC. He is employed by Harris and Frank Store as a salesman.

A June 25 wedding is planned.

NANCY CARROLL

Carroll-Olthof

Miss Nancy Carroll of Diamond Bar and James Fritz Olthof of Norwalk are engaged.

The bride-elect, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Carroll of Diamond Bar, graduated from Walnut High School and Northwest College of Pomona.

Miss Carroll is employed in El Monte.

The future bridegroom, son of Mrs. Kathy Catmul of Norwalk, was graduated with honors from Santa Fe High School. He is employed at Angels in El Monte.

An April 30 wedding is planned.

MARY CORBO

Corbo-Thompson

Miss Mary Corbo of Montclair and Bradley Thompson of Covina will be married June 18 in Our Lady of Lourdes Church, Montclair.

The future bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rocco P. Corbo of Montclair, graduated in 1972 from Pomona Catholic Girls High School and attended Chaffey College.

Miss Corbo is employed as a service clerk at General Telephone in Pomona.

Son of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald O. Thompson of Covina, the groom-to-be is a 1970 graduate of Northview High School, Covina. He is employed as a grocery clerk at Beach's Market in Rosemead.

Selter and Morgan vows exchanged

Newly wed Mr. and Mrs. Lee Charles Selter have established a home in Montclair following their marriage at Chino United Methodist Church.

The former Miss Susan Morgan is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Morgan of Chino. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Milton Selter of Chino.

Honor attendant was Miss Vickie Morgan, of Chino.

Candle lighter was Miss Ginny Morgan, of Chino.
